PRICE ONE CENT

ORDER IS RESTORED

In Barcelona Proper, But Outskirts Are Warring

Two Deputies and Eight Aldermen of Barcelona Were Court-Martialed—118 Insurgents Executed

BARCELONA, Aug. 2.—Order is today almost completely re-established in Barcelona proper, but the troubles continue on the outskirts of the city. Railroad communication with Barcelona has not yet been re-established. The losses suffered by commerce during the rioting of the past week, have been enormous and the destruction of property has been great.

Among the victims of the military court martial are two members of deputies and eight aldermen of Barcelona.

INSURENTS EXECUTED

LONDON, Aug. 2.—A special despatch received here from Cerbere, on the Spanish frontier, says the reports that 119 insurgents of Barcelona, were sentenced by court martial to death and executed by shooting yesterday at the Fort of Montjuich, have been officially confirmed.

DENIED BY AUTHORITIES

MADRID, Aug. 2.—The military authorities today deny categorically that the revolutionists sentenced to death at Barcelona already have been executed. They say that the sentences are awaiting the approval of the minister of war and that in the meantime the prisoners are being held in the dungeons of Montjuich and Citaramas forts. Those of the prisoners who suffered wounds are in hospitals. The government announces also that the work of restoring railroad communication in Catalonia is proceeding actively and that the lines between Barcelona, Cerbere, Saragossa and Valencia, probably will be re-established Wednesday.

GENERAL STRIKE

BEING ORGANIZED IN THE BIS-CAYAN REGION

PARIS, Aug. 2.—Although official Spain minimizes the Catalanian insurrection and insists that the revolt has been crushed, a far different story emanates from the frontier. Refugees and travelers declare that the revolt is still rampant and that desperate combats continue at Barcelona where 50 revolutionists are reported to have been wounded in a conflict which occurred as late as Saturday night.

Information concerning the actual situation in Barcelona and the rest of the province was rather last night than ever before. Although some of the news from the frontier is from revolutionary sources, and therefore open to suspicion, more reliable information leads to the belief that, although Barcelona is calmer, the insurrectionists have taken to the suburbs and the outlying country, where they are sowing the seeds of revolt and inflaming the populace to maintain the struggle to the bitter end. Barcelona province is in the hands of prowling bands of workmen, heavily armed, who occupy the railroads and highways to prevent communication and who refuse entrance to new comers. Casan de la Selva is in the hands of the revolutionists, and at Palencia, where the monastery was fired upon and the monks tortured, the situation is described as alarming, and the lives of foreigners endangered.

The opinion in semi-official circles here concerning Spain's internal situation is pessimistic and the belief is expressed that the trouble is not yet over. Official Madrid announces that Barcelona is tranquil, but qualifies this statement with the words "this is especially so in the center of the city."

From Melilla comes the news of another Spanish campaign being ambushed and several of its officers being wounded before the troops succeeded in extricating themselves from the attack of the tribesmen.

Rumors are about that a general strike will be launched today at Madrid and that a strike is being organized in the Biscaian region. All persons subject to military duty are forbidden to leave Spain under grave penalty, and these labor measures have been adopted to forestall a possible outbreak in the other provinces of the country.

Official denial is given to the report that the temper of the Madrid garrison is hostile. Another official statement says that the number of victims of the fighting at Barcelona is unknown, but frontier reports, one of them of alleged authoritative inspiration, declare that the killed or wounded with aggressiveness and thousands and that the number of insurrectionists summarily shot was between 49 and 129.

REVOLUTIONISTS

HAVE FLED TO THE MOUNTAINS AND VILLAGES

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The Daily Telegraph's Madrid correspondent in a story dated Friday night and sent by way of Biarritz declares that though the military is now in control at Barcelona, the situation is still more difficult, inasmuch as the anarchists and revolutionaries have fled to the mountains and nearby villages, where they will form invulnerable centers of disaffection and it is preferable to fight section at one point than a hundred points.

The revolutionary movement, according to the correspondent, is now extending to all the industrial towns along the coast and where the revolutionists have been hurriedly dispatched to receive with rifle volleys. It is expected that there will be further resistance in the mountain districts and villages, where it will be necessary to send large numbers of troops.

"Sanctuary arrests," continues the correspondent, "have been made at Madrid with the intention of preventing the general strike, which, however, will be proclaimed Monday and embrace every industry, including the gas and electrical workers."

It would require a book of a hundred pages to describe the events at Barcelona. Montjuich fortress is full of prisoners awaiting court martial. It must be remarked that the prefect was in complete ignorance of what was happening and that Gen. Sanjurjo took charge of affairs at Barcelona only two hours after he had the whole city would have been given over to fire and pillage. According to the capital general's estimate a thousand persons were killed and 2500 wounded during the suppression of the revolt in the Paralelo quarter, where most of the workmen live. There were signs of anarchy and vandalism that it is impossible to describe them. The revolutionaries took women, old men and children from the asylums and placed them in front of the barricades in order to prevent the soldiers from firing and to give them time for flight. Eventually Paralelo had to be bombarded.

The punishment was severe, but well merited by those of humanity who ruined the finest city on the Mediterranean.

The soldiers behaved with remarkable discipline and splendid heroism. The city resembles a battlefield. Streets were deserted and public life was paralyzed. There was no light and no food. The continual discharge of guns and rifles was heard.

There is an unconfirmed report that two large local forces of the irregular militia and forest guards, together with 20,000 men have made common cause with the revolutionaries.

The Daily Telegraph's Barcelona correspondent, telegraphing Sunday, says:

"Everything is quiet and Gen. Sanjurjo regards the trouble as ended. White flags are hanging from the windows in the workmen's quarters. No trains are running, but otherwise the city life is becoming normal."

Gen. Sanjurjo has issued a note to the army, thanking the men for their work, and saying that with such a force Spain can be sure of her future.

AN AUTO DITCHED

Three Lowell Men Injured at Chelmsford

A rather serious automobile accident, in which three well known Lowell men were injured took place Saturday afternoon in Chelmsford.

The men in the automobile were William C. Gould of the Melvin-Croft Co., Samuel Dunford of the Lowell Insulated Wire Co., and William DeLong, also of this city. The party in a big 10 horsepower Peerless touring car had been going to Chelmsford to repair an auto belonging to the war company and were returning to this city when suddenly the steering gear of the Peerless went wrong and the machine became unmanageable, running down a bridge containing two women and some children and then turning turtle, throwing the occupants in all directions.

The machine came down on top of Mr. Gould, who was knocked unconscious, and for a time was thought to be beyond serious hurt.

Temporary aid was given him, and he was brought to the Emergency hospital in this city, where his injuries were deemed. He sustained a broken arm, leg, being badly shaken up. Mr. Dunford was bruised on the shoulder, while Mr. DeLong escaped uninjured. Mr. Dunford was able to be around yesterday.

TWO SWINGS

HAVE BEEN RECEIVED BY DAY NURSERY

As the result of an article published in The Sun recently relative to the Day Nursery, two fine swings, just what were needed, have been received from the White star in Merrimack street, and the other from Mr. Nelson of the Colonial building. The management of the Day Nursery is deeply grateful to the donors, while the delight of the children knows no bounds.

SONDER RACES

Arrangements for Trials at Marblehead

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., Aug. 2.—The racing rules which will govern the German-American sonder yacht trials for the selection of the three American defenders of the President Taft and Governor Bradley announced today show that the yachts in the contest, which will begin on Aug. 16, will be sent off on what is known as the German system, in which a black ball will be hoisted at fifteen second intervals during the last minute before starting. This system has found to work well in the sonder races at Kiel and probably will be continued from the trial races to the German-American cup races, which begin on the 30th inst.

Eighteen yachts have entered for the American trials and in order to avoid crowding at the line, the committee will send the boats off in three divisions with five minute intervals between the fleets. This method will obtain on Aug. 16, 17 and 18, after which the committee plan to eliminate three or four yachts from each division and combine the survivors into one fleet for three days after which it is hoped that a final selection can be made. All the American entries, with two exceptions, have reached local waters and it is expected that all the yachts will participate in the numerous open races which will be held in Massachusetts bay in the next two weeks.

ON THE COMMON

Big Meeting by the Law and Order League

About 1600 people attended the open air meeting by the Law and Order League on the South common, yesterday afternoon. Rev. N. W. Matthews was in charge of the meeting and the speakers included Rev. J. W. Stephan, Rev. George P. Keimigott, and others. The meeting was under the auspices of the Good Templar societies of the city and Good Templar songs were sung to the accompaniment of a concert.

Beautiful in our city," he said, "the streets of Boston are being changed to a more beautiful city than they have been for many years."

REV. J. W. STEPHAN, Minister of the South Church.

The evil of the liquor traffic and the curse of drink were touched upon by the speakers. Rev. Mr. Stephan said it almost appeared as if the American people were given more to the branch than to the observance of the law, more by accident, however, than by disposition to break the law. To illustrate what is meant in this connection he spoke of the over-speeding of automobiles, bicyclists who would take the sidewalk when the street was a little rough or muddy. He said his attention was many times attracted by the "no smoking" signs in public conveyances, especially in boats. "The signs were everywhere, but seldom respected. Men would glance at the sign and continue to smoke with impunity. He referred to the sign "no dogs allowed" in the public gardens in Boston, yet there were dogs on all sides.

From these little branches of the law he led up to acts of greater criminality and referred to violations of the law by saloon and hotel keepers. He said the saloon and hotel man did not always break the law because he wanted to but more especially to satisfy a demand on the part of a customer feeling apparently that the demand of his customer was of greater importance than a strict observance of the law. He said there were men in public office who violated their oaths of office more because of the demand made upon them by their constituents than their desire to do wrong.

Mr. Stephan made a brief address on "True Patriotism." First he referred to the man who loves local things. "We should love the things that are race pride and said that while the foreigner who comes here is naturally prone to associate with his own people he quickly imbibes the spirit of his adopted country and becomes as

ST. LOUIS PLUNGER ARRESTED IN FRANCE AND HIS WEALTHY WIFE

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 2.—Marion Dwight Plunger, who made a rapid rise in this city from key clerk in a hotel to son-in-law of a multi-millionaire, and then got into trouble through real estate operations of the "fixed type," is on his way here from France, where he was in charge of Detective McMahon's answer to an alleged $12,000 forgery. Plunger came here a few years ago from Memphis and became clerk in the Hotel Jefferson where he met and married Miss Kathryn Handley, daughter of a wealthy manufacturer, over the protests of her family. He quit the hotel and went into the real estate business, operating on a big scale. He left suddenly, and his affairs were found to be in a tangled condition. He was located in Europe and a detective sent after him.

patriotic a citizen of it as he was of his native country. In conclusion he said that we ought to be a united people and should breathe the spirit that would prevent us from injuring the country of our fellow men. He said the citizen as well as the office holder has his duty to perform and declared that the 25,000 votes in New York and the 160,000 in Ohio that never doubt the doors of a polling booth should be made to realize that their duty is just as great as it is the duty of the man in office, and if they refuse to vote they ought not to have about the actions of their legislators.

DECREASE NOTED In Live Stock and Grain Movement

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Improved conditions in railway traffic and in the movements of live stock are characteristic of the June Internal Commerce report of the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor. The live stock, grain, and provision movements show a decrease in volume compared with the figures of the corresponding month of last year, and extreme activity in handling which characterized the reports of the earlier months of the year shows some signs of abatement. Live stock receipts during the month of June, 1909, were 2,422,824 head, showing a considerable decrease as compared with like figures for June 1908 and 1907. Smaller receipts are shown for all classes of animals except calves. The decrease affects all important centers with the exception of Kansas City, which reports larger arrivals of all classes of live stock except horses and mules. The total number of cars used in handling the live stock movement during the month was 51,582, compared with 55,196 and 60,141 cars reported for June, 1908 and 1907. Live stock arrivals at the same centers for the six months ending June 1909, 1908, and 1907, compared with 20,825,523 and 20,652,242 head for the same period in 1908 and 1907. The smaller total is due mainly to the smaller receipts of hogs and cattle. The receipts during the first half of the year at Chicago of hogs alone, 9,475,565 head, were about 15 per cent below those reported for the first six months in 1908. The calculated number of inbound live stock cars was 326,341 for the six-month period of the current year, compared with 335,902 and 371,509 cars reported for the same period in 1908 and 1907. A similar decline in the monthly receipts of live stock is shown for the four principal Atlantic seaports, the June 1909 figures, 7,067,27 head, being over 5 per cent below the June 1908, 7,492,141 head, and the June 1907, 7,842,115 head. The decline in the receipts of live stock is shown for the four principal Atlantic seaports, the June 1909 figures, 7,067,27 head, being over 5 per cent below the June 1908, 7,492,141 head, and the June 1907, 7,842,115 head. low the June, 1908, receipts, and less than one-half the June, 1907, receipts. The receipts for the month of oats, barley and rye were somewhat larger than during June, 1908. Grain receipts at the same markets for the year season, beginning with Sept. 1, to the end of the month totaled 639,889,535 bushels, compared with 639,140,090 and 718,083,117 bushels for the 1907-8 and 1908-7 seasons. The largest increase occurred under the head of corn and oats. The wheat receipts during the current season, 206,622,207 bushels, were about 26 million bushels in excess of the receipts during the 1907-8 season. The flour shipments during June from 13 important milling points, 5,038,358 barrels, compare favorably with the analogous figures for June, 1908, 5,531,326 barrels, though falling short of the June 1907, figures of 5,922,470 barrels. The six principal flour shipments from the same points, 1,951,460 barrels, exceeded the shipments for the same period during the two previous years.

Grain and flour receipts during June at the four leading Atlantic seaports totaled 9,551,111 bushels, compared with 11,735,218 and 16,545,053 bushels reported for June 1908 and 1907. The losses are mainly accounted for by the partial check of the export movement caused by the prevailing high prices, especially of wheat. The June receipts of wheat at these markets were 1,167,583 bushels, compared with 2,772,347 bushels reported for June, 1908. The flour receipts were 570,218 barrels, compared with 1,061,102 barrels reported during June of the previous year. Similar decreases appear under the head of other breadstuffs. The six-month figures, 65,819,000 bushels, show an 18 and 15 per cent loss compared with analogous 1908 and 1907 figures.

Coastwise receipts of southern pine lumber at New York, 10,115,008 feet, as well as the total lumber receipts at Boston, 27,600,352 feet, show the largest monthly figures for the season, and by far exceed the June, 1908, figures. The monthly receipts of redwood at California points, 25,181,191 feet, were over 20 per cent in excess of the corresponding 1908 total. Pine and fir arrivals during the month at California points, 117,597,261 feet, were about one-third in excess of the corresponding 1908 figures. June shipments of pine lumber from the Mississippi and Wisconsin valleys, 88,558,888 feet, fell short of the May figures and were even 11 per cent below those reported for June, 1908. Smaller shipments are also shown for pine lumber from Virginia and the California coast. The June 1909, figures, 15,297,121 feet, being about a million feet below those reported the year before.

The June shipments of bituminous coal over a list of the leading eastern coal-carrying roads, 1,291,131 tons, compare favorably with 1,288,044 tons transported during June, 1908. The coal traffic in June over these roads, 1,291,131 tons, shows the largest monthly total for the year and exceeded by 75 per cent the quantity reported for June, 1908. The estimated coal production at the Pennsylvania district for the month was 47 per cent in excess of the corresponding live output. The number of loaded cars shipped to points of consumption, 14,011, shows practically the same rate of increase. A decline in the shipments of anthracite coal, both as compared with the two previous years as well as the figures for the earlier months of the year, is shown by the June figures, 429,135 tons of coal. The anthracite shipments for the first six months of the year, 1,621,715 tons, were lower than the six-month totals for the two preceding years.

The pig-iron output during the month, 1,929,384 gross tons, was larger than for any month since October, 1907, notwithstanding the fact that several of the important furnaces show a reduced output. The improvement in the iron trade is seen best from the fact that the monthly lake shipments of iron ore from Lake Superior and Lake Michigan points, 5,230,657 gross tons, were more than double shipments reported for June of last year.

The monthly steel receipts at Boston, 47,473,362 pounds, were almost double the June, 1908, receipts, both the domestic and foreign works sharing in the increase. Shipments of steel during the month, 16,944,387 pounds, were below those reported for June 1908.

Building operations in the leading American cities, as measured by the value of permits granted, show a total of $5,122,250, which is 27 per cent less than that reported for May of the same year, to high 34.1 per cent, larger than the June 1908, total.

The municipal concert by the Lowell Cadet band on the North common last night drew a large crowd and was much enjoyed. The concert lasted about two hours and the program, which was published in the Sun, Saturday, pleased the crowd immensely.

THE TARIFF BILL To be Passed by Senate This Week

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Unless something happens to provide heated discussions of a political character the new tariff bill will be enacted into law and the extraordinary session of congress adjourned before the end of the present session. Highly among senators opposed to the adoption of the conference committee report of the Payne-Aldrich bill indicates that the bill will not be extended as it threatened to be before the conference report.

Sen. Aldrich is determined that the conference report shall not be passed over into next session. He said yesterday that he would not speak a word in support of the bill until after the members of the committee would occupy comparatively little time. It is probable that senators who were opposed to the passing of the bill will not at that subject and that all of the republicans who voted against the bill when it was on its passage in the senate will take occasion to explain their action. Sen. Callaghan, leader of the minority, is authority for the statement that the debate will be a long one, the conference report thoroughly but will not filibuster against its adoption. Some of the senate leaders predict that a vote will be had on the conference report as early as Thursday and that the special session of congress can be brought to a close on Friday.

BROCKTON WON

Took Double-Header From Lowell Team Saturday

There were about three thousand fans at Spalding park Friday to see the double-header between Brockton and Lowell. The lineup of the teams was practically the same as yesterday, the exception being in the batteries. Junger, the Panama player, was on the slab for the home team, while Hoyle was behind the bat. For the visitors Cutting was doing the twirling while Shea was on the receiving end of the battery.

Empire McLaughlin was the decision maker.

First Inning
Neither side scored in the first inning. Shannon opened with a strike out and McLane was out. Wilkie went out on a fly to Howard.

In the latter half of the inning Venable fled to Bannan, Fitzpatrick fled to Shea and Fitzpatrick struck out. Score—Lowell 0, Brockton 0.

Second Inning
The visitors sent two men across the plate in the second but no such luck for Lowell. Hickman fled to Howard and Bannan followed with a free pass and stole second. McGovern got a lucky single by second base and Bannan scored. McGovern went to second on the throw home. Shea hit to Danzig and was out but McGovern managed to get to third on the put out. Cutting got a Texas leaguer and McGovern scored. Shannon hit to Wilkie and was out at first.

Third Inning
The visitors got two more runs in the third inning. McLane starting the hitting by sending the ball out to the left field fence for a two bagger. Donovan bunted and Junger had a chance to throw Donovan out at first but he got rattled when the Brockton players started to shout at him and he sent the ball to first. Murch then singled and McLane scored from third. Hickman hit to Venable who threw Donovan out at the plate. Hickman and Murch tried a double steal and Murch was thrown out. Bannan singled and Hickman scored. McGovern fled to Junger.

In Lowell's half Junger opened with a single. Venable hit to Shannon who threw to second and the ball was returned to first for a double play. Fitz hit to Murch and was out at first. Score—Brockton 4, Lowell 0.

Fourth Inning
Junger settled down in the fourth inning. Shea opened with a single. Cutting got three strikes. Boyle dropping the last strike. At about the same time Shea started for second and Boyle nailed him while the ball was sent to first for a double. Shannon struck out.

Fitzpatrick hit a hot one to Cutting and was retired at first. Danzig followed with a base on balls, but Howard fled to Bannan and Danzig was forced on Wilkie hit to Shannon. Score—Brockton 4, Lowell 0.

Fifth Inning
There was no scoring in the fifth inning. McLane fled to Wilkie and Donovan fled to Boyle. Murch drew a base on balls but he got no further, for Hickman hit to Wilkie and was out at first.

Lowell got the bases filled in the latter half of the fifth but failed to score. Walters got a base on balls and Boyle hit to Murch and was out at first. Junger struck out. Venable singled advancing Walters. Fitz drew a base on balls and the bases were filled, but Fitzpatrick was third out hitting to Hickman and was out at first.

Sixth Inning
Brockton got another run in the sixth inning. Bannan hit to Wilkie, who fouled and the runner reached first in safety. He went to second on McGovern's sacrifice, went to third when Shannon hit to Fitzpatrick and was out at first and scored. On Cutting's single, Shannon hit to Wilkie forcing Cutting at second.

Danzig reached first on an error by McGovern and Howard followed with a fly to Bannan. Wilkie fled to Hickman and the latter threw to first for a double play on Danzig. Score—Brockton 5, Lowell 0.

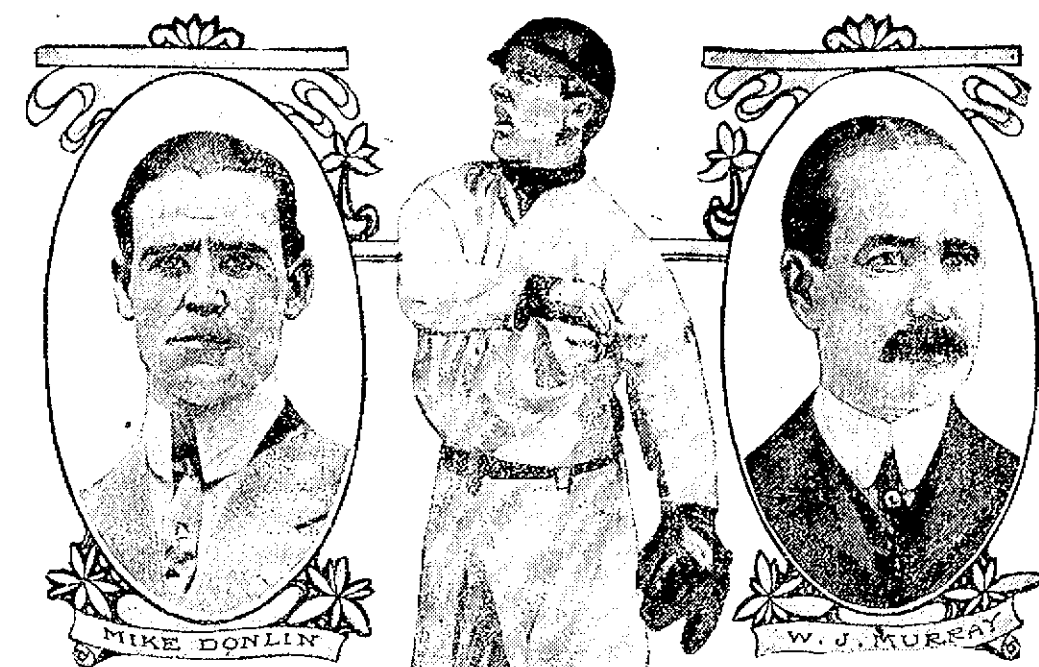

Seventh Inning
Neither side scored in the seventh inning. McLane hit to Wilkie and was out at first. Donovan fled to Fitzpatrick. Murch drew a base on balls and Hickman hit to Fitzpatrick. In Lowell's half Walters, poked to Hickman. Boyd struck out and Junger hit above the first base line and was third out.

Eighth Inning
In the eighth inning Bannan fled to Fitzpatrick and McGovern followed with a fly to Danzig. Shea got a single over second base but Cutting was third out on a foul fly to Boyle.

In Lowell's half Venable hit to first field and McLane after a long hard swing made a grand slam home run over the left field fence. Fitzpatrick hit to Bannan and was out at first. In the latter half of the inning Bannan and Howard fled to Hickman.

Ninth Inning
In the ninth inning Shannon hit to Wilkie and was out at first. McLane then got a single. Bannan hit to front of the plate and was out at first. Murch drew a base on balls and the bases were filled. In the latter half of the inning Bannan and Howard fled to Hickman.

THE DONLIN-MAGEE DEAL LIKELY TO BE PUT THROUGH AFTER ALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Despite the reported details of the proposed Donlin-Magee deal, after going through it is taken for granted that it has been consummated through the earnest efforts of Manager McLaughlin of the New York Giants. By the terms of the deal it is understood that Manager Murray, who assumes the managerial responsibility of the Philadelphia National league club at the present time, is fully compensated for any financial loss he might sustain and in all probability will run the team for the balance of the season. Donlin will become field captain of the Phillies, taking full charge next spring, and Sherwood Magee, the star outfielder of the Quaker City club, will report to the New York Nationals without delay. Magee has fallen off in batting

COLLINS, STAR SECOND BASEMAN, OF THE PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2. (R. H. Barry, N. Y. Times.) Collins, the star second baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics, is a man of many parts. He is a powerful, well-built man, with a strong, muscular build. He is a natural leader, and his presence on the field is a source of confidence to his teammates. He is a hard worker, and he is always ready to do his best for his team. He is a great player, and he is always ready to take the lead. He is a great leader, and he is always ready to take the lead. He is a great player, and he is always ready to take the lead.

JOHN A. HEYDLER

May Become Head of National League

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—It is probable that John A. Heydler, acting president of the National Baseball league, will succeed to the presidency made vacant by the tragic death of Harry Pulliam. When Mr. Pulliam went on a long vacation because of illness, Mr. Heydler as secretary of the league assumed the duties of president at the request of the board of directors and quickly administered the affairs of the league organization. The constitution of the league requires the directors to elect a new president within thirty days after the death of an incumbent, but this was impossible following Pulliam's death, because several of the directors were in remote parts of the country on their vacations.

GREAT GAME

WESTFORD A. A. DEFEATED BY NSHUA BY SCORE OF 5 TO 3

The Westford A. A. went up to Nashua Saturday and was defeated by the Nashua Independents in an excellent game. The final score was 5 to 3. The upriver team scored all its runs in the third after a clever bunting rally and the Westford boys answered their three in the second inning. There were about 1200 spectators in attendance. Reynolds, formerly of the Worcester N. E. league, was delivered a beautiful garden for Westford and made three beautiful catches. In the Nashua lineup was Paddy O'Day, of this city, and a glance at the box score will show the article of ball that he played. The score.

The Crescents defeated the Inequities on the South common in the Stony Brook league by the score of 10 to 4 Saturday. The first work of the Crescents' infield was the feature of the game.

The Y. O. S. defeated the Centralville Blues Sunday by a score of 17 to 6. Leo Vagstad, pitcher of the Y. O. S. and made the feature of the game by his good pitching.

The T. R. & T. S. defeated the Chelmsford by a score of 2 to 2 at Paulkner park, Billerica, Saturday. The Billerica aggregation won the game in the first inning. After the first inning, however, the visitors got settled down and the game from that point was well contested.

The score by innings was as follows:
T. R. & T. S. 5 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

HADLEY, Mass., Aug. 2.—A four day's festival, in celebration of the 250th anniversary of the settlement of the town, was begun here yesterday. For the next three days there will be a general celebration by the people of the town, and hundreds of sons and daughters of Hadley from far and near will gather here. The most interesting feature of the celebration will be a street parade, in which there will be a great many of the historical events in the history of the town will be depicted. The daughter towns of Amherst, which tomorrow will celebrate its 125th anniversary, South Hadley, Sunderland and Granby, and the other town of Hatfield will be represented in the parade.

The initial exercises of the celebration yesterday were religious services at the First Congregational and St. John's (Roman Catholic) church in the forenoon. In the afternoon commemorative exercises were held in a big tent erected in the middle of West street. For an address was delivered by Rev. J. H. Fisher, D. D., of Boston. Brockton, N. Y., and an original poem by Clarence Hawkes, the blind poet of Hadley, read by the author.

LAWN SWINGS
Sent to O'Leary Home and Day Nursery

As the result of the article published in The Sun Friday, relative to the Day Nursery in Kirk street, the nursery is today in the possession of a beautiful lawn swing, the gift of Mr. Frank D. Low of the Bartlett & Dow hardware firm, in Central street. In order not to show any discrimination Mr. Dow sent another swing to the O'Leary home next door, where the children need it just as much as at the nursery. The gifts were greatly appreciated by both institutions.

COLLINSVILLE
Kerosene is not fashioned in Collinsville. On Friday night at the store of Mrs. G. S. Holt, the first gas flame ever burned in Collinsville was lighted. To make the event the more interesting, the ladies of the village were given opportunity to listen to Miss Webber in a cooking demonstration on a gas range, all of which is the immediate result of the completion of a gas main extension to Collinsville by the Lowell Gas Light company.

Swings and Hammocks in the Playground Would Delight the Children

The Sun of recent date contained an article on one of Lowell's greatest charities, the Day Nursery, and suggested a few little needs for the institution which could be provided at a slight expenditure. There is a good field for charitable work in Lowell, particularly among the charities which look after the children at the Day Nursery and the different orphanages.

A sterling charitable institution which is seldom heard of but which in its time has cared for thousands of orphans and homeless children in St. Peter's orphanage, Appleton street, conducted for the past 22 years by the Sisters of Charity of Nazareth, Kentucky, St. Peter's is the oldest orphanage in Lowell and has existed in the big brick building in Appleton street in the rear of the old St. Peter's church, long since displaced by the post office, for over a quarter of a century, during most of the time being under the care of the nuns of the Nazareth order.

and attend mass before breakfast. The little ones retire at 7 o'clock each evening and the older girls at 8. They are taught the regular school studies together with plain sewing, fancy work and housework. The orphanage receives girls exclusively. On the first floor is the parlor and a very cosy chapel in front with dining room, kitchen and playroom in the rear for a large wing added to the main building gives substantial floor space in the rear and divides the children's yard or playground from a very pretty and well kept garden in which the nuns spend their recreation hours. The second floor contains the school rooms, infirmary, bathrooms and lavatories. The dormitories are on the third and fourth floors. In relation to the infirmary it is the room least used in a building for the health of the institution is perfect and although Dr. Houtens frequently visits the orphanage he seldom

At the present time St. Peter's orphanage has 44 children, within the 14 years, ranging in ages from 2 to 14 years. Most of them have no friends to pay even a pittance for their support, while for some the institution receives a slight compensation, but by no means equal to the cost of maintenance. The children, however, as well as on the orphanage, none knows any other life but for and with the orphanage.

As this is vacation time the children were all playing in the yard when The Sun reporter called. They were all interested in a huge sand pile which Contractor Connors keeps in huge dimensions. The yard in which they play is roomy and is shaded by a number of apple and elm trees. The first observation of the reporter was the entire absence of hammocks and swings, such as are the delight of little ones. The yard is particularly adapted for hammocks and swings on account of the great shade trees. It would cost but a little to provide the orphanage with a few swings and hammocks. During the school weeks the children go to their classes from 8:30 to 11:30 and from 1:30 to 4. They take all of the morning and any illness there.

When the children arrive at the age of 14 they are either taken by relatives or go to the State Homes, some afterward obtaining employment in the stores. Even after the children are discharged they pay frequent visits to their old home and still continue under the gentle restraint of the good habits. The reporter was told of one case where four girls were brought up at the orphanage, all of whom have since left there, but all of whom still together and maintain a cozy little home, remaining at home to keep house, and the other three working.

Death of Rev. Fr. Bonar, the orphanage's best friend. He is related as certain and looked after its welfare more minutely than any other. He knew the extent of his charity toward the orphanage. Another good friend of the orphanage was the late Fr. James Walsh. Both clergymen will miss at the orphanage in the Sunday preceding the death of Fr. Walsh was preparing to go to the orphanage to see the death of Fr. Walsh. The Sunday church composed of a number of Catholics, women, annually during Advent and Lent, gather of things and hold meetings for the explanation of which they

Big Meeting by the Law and Order League

About 1000 people attended the open-air meeting by the Law and Order League on the South common, yesterday afternoon. Rev. N. W. Matthews was in charge of the meeting and the speakers included Rev. J. W. Stephan, Rev. George F. Koonsoot, and others. The meeting was under the auspices of the Good Templar societies of the city and Good Templar songs were sung to the accompaniment of a concert.

The evil of the liquor traffic and the curse of drink were touched upon by the speakers. Rev. Mr. Stephan said it almost appeared as if the American people were given more to the law, more by accident, however, than a disposition to break the law. To illustrate what he meant in this connection he spoke of the over-speeding of automobiles. He said that he would take the sidewalk when the street was a little rough or muddy. He said his attention was many times attracted by the "no smoking" signs in public conveyances, especially in boats. The signs were everywhere but seldom respected. Men would glance at the sign and continue to smoke with impunity. He referred to the sign "no dogs allowed" in the public gardens in Boston, yet there were dogs on all sides.

From these little breaches of the law he led up to acts of greater criminality and referred to violations of the law by saloon and hotel keepers. He said the saloon and hotel man did not always break the law because he wanted to but more especially to satisfy a demand on the part of a customer feeling, apparently, that the demand of his customer was of greater importance than a strict observance of the law. He said there were men in public offices who violated their oaths of office more because of the demand made upon them by their constituents than their desire to do wrong.

Mr. Stephan made a brief address on "True Patriotism." First he referred to the man who loves local things. "We should love the things that are beautiful in our city," he said. "Instead of forever complaining the wrongs that are being enacted, we should give our eyes to the things that are good and the things that are beautiful."

He said that the true patriot has a

ST. LOUIS PLUNGER ARRESTED IN FRANCE AND HIS WEALTHY WIFE

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 2.—Marion Dwight Fortner, who made a rapid rise in this city from key clerk in a hotel to son-in-law of a multi-millionaire, and then got into trouble through real estate operations of the French type, is on his way here from Chateaufort, France, in charge of Detective McMullen to answer to an alleged $12,000 forgery. Fortner came here a few years ago from Memphis and became clerk in the Hotel Jefferson, where he met and married Miss Kathryn Hamble, daughter of a wealthy manufacturer, over the protests of her family. He quit the hotel and ran into the real estate business, operating on a large scale. He lost $25,000 and his affairs were found to be in a tangled condition. He was located in Europe and a detective sent after him.

patriotic citizen of it as he was of his native country.

In conclusion he said that we ought to be a united people and should be the spirit that would prevent us from fracturing the country or our fellow men. He said the citizen as well as the officer has his duty to perform and declared that the 18,000 voters in Massachusetts, the 225,000 voters in New York and the 160,000 in Ohio that never darken the doors of a polling booth should be made to realize that their duty is just as great as is the duty of the man in office, and if they refuse to vote they ought not to howl about the actions of their legislators.

DECREASE NOTED

In Live Stock and Grain Movement

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Improved conditions in railway traffic and in the movements of stock are characteristic of the June Internal Commerce report of the department of commerce and statistics. The live stock, grain, and provision movements show a decrease in volume compared with the figures of the corresponding month of last year. The decrease in live stock activity in building which characterized the reports of the earlier months of the year shows some signs of abatement.

Live stock receipts during the month at 7 interior primary markets, 2,562,241 head, show a considerable decrease as compared with like figures for June, 1908, and 1907. 3,255,561 and 2,265,561, and 2,292,922 head, respectively. Smaller receipts are shown for all classes of animals except calves. The decrease affects all important centers with the exception of Kansas City, which reports larger arrivals of all classes of live stock except horses and mules. The total number of cars used in handling the live stock movement during the month was 52,582, compared with 53,490 and 50,111 cars reported for June, 1908, and 1907. Live stock arrivals at the same centers for the six months ending June totaled 19,031,725 head, compared with 20,252,242 head for the same period in 1908 and 1907. The smaller receipts of hogs and cattle. The receipts during the first half of the year at Chicago of hogs alone, 4,017,558 head, were about 15 per cent below those reported for the first six months in 1908. The calculated number of inbound live stock cars was 526,510 for the six-month period of the current year, compared with 555,562 and 511,560 cars reported for the same period in 1908 and 1907.

A similar decline in the monthly receipts of live stock is shown for the four principal Atlantic seaport cities. The June, 1909, figures, 1,502,227 head, are over 5 per cent below the June, 1908, figures. The main losses occurred through even calves and sheep show smaller figures than a year ago. The showing for the six-month period is even more unfavorable. The first total 4,412,188 head, being about 7 per cent below the corresponding total in 1908, though the number of sheep received for the six months was larger than a year ago.

The June shipments of packing house products from the four principal Atlantic seaport cities, 1,091,161 tons, were likewise smaller than the June, 1908 and 1907, figures of 1,153,295 and 1,050,115 tons, respectively. The total is the smaller shipments of fresh beef, canned meats, and poultry. Pickled beef and hams, on the other hand, show a heavier output and movement than a year ago. Shipments for the first six months of the year, 1909, 1,091,161 tons, show a decline in comparison with the figures for the corresponding period in 1908 and 1907. The decline is most marked in the case of fresh beef, canned meats, and poultry. Pickled beef, canned meats and pork appear to have been shipped in larger quantities than during the first half of the year. Shipments of packing house products for the first six months of the year, 1909, 1,091,161 tons, show a decline in comparison with the figures for the corresponding period in 1908 and 1907. low the June, 1908, receipts, and less than one-half the June, 1907, receipts. The receipts for the month of oats, barley and rye were somewhat larger than during June, 1908. Grain receipts at the seven seaports for the crop season, beginning with Sept. 1, to the end of the 15-day period ending June 30, 1909, compared with 1,029,100,000 and 1,048,117 bushels for the 1908 and 1907 seasons. The largest losses as compared with the 1908 receipts are noted under the head of corn and oats. The wheat receipts during the current season, 2,752,517 bushels, were about 25 million bushels in excess of like receipts during the 1908 season. The four shipments during June from 15 important milling points, 3,030,545 barrels, compare favorably with the analogous figures for June, 1908, 2,831,326 barrels. Grain falling short of the June, 1907, figures of 3,192,470 barrels. The six months' receipts from the seven seaports, 15,061,460 barrels, exceed 150 million barrels for the same period during the two previous years.

Grain and their receipts during June at the four leading Atlantic seaports totaled 2,512,111 barrels, compared with 1,175,345 and 1,048,117 barrels reported for June, 1908 and 1907. The losses are mainly accounted for by the partial check of the export movement caused by the prevailing high prices, especially of wheat. The June receipts of wheat at these markets were 1,434,558 bushels, compared with 2,752,517 bushels reported for June, 1908. The four receipts were 879,245 barrels, compared with 1,661,102 barrels reported during June of the previous year. Similar decreases appear under the head of other broad grains. The six months' figures, 65,158,000 bushels, show an 18 and 15 per cent loss as compared with analogous periods in 1908 and 1907.

Coastwise receipts of southern pine lumber at New York, 4,115,000 feet, as well as the total lumber receipts at Boston, 17,000,000 feet, show the largest monthly figures for the season, and by far exceed the June, 1908, figures. The monthly receipts of redwood at California points, 2,183,931 feet, were over 20 per cent in excess of the corresponding 1908 total. Pine and its affiliates during the month at California points, 17,507,261 feet, were about one-third in excess of the corresponding 1908 figures. June shipments of pine lumber from the Mississippi and Wisconsin valleys, 8,535,838 feet, fell short of the May figures and were even 11 per cent below those reported for June, 1908. Smaller shipments are also shown for pine lumber from Virginia and the Carolinas; the June, 1909, figures, 15,262,123 feet being about 6 million feet below those reported the year before.

The June shipments of bituminous coal over a part of the leading eastern coal-carrying roads, 7,611,171 tons, compare favorably with 6,655,000 tons transported during June, 1908. The coal receipts in June over these roads, 1,021,151 tons, show the largest monthly total for the year and exceeded by 70 per cent the quantity reported for June, 1908. The estimated receipts for the month at the Connallyville district for the five weeks ending June 25, 1,215,555 net tons, was 17 per cent in excess of the corresponding 1908 output. The number of loaded cars shipped to points of consumption, 14,041, shows practically the same rate of output. A decline in the shipments of petroleum coal, both as reported and in the two figures, are well as the figures for the other months of the year, is shown by the June receipts, 1,021,151 gross tons. The monthly shipments for the first six months of the year, 5,100,115 gross tons, were 1 per cent below the six months' total for the 1908 year.

THE TARIFF BILL

To be Passed by Senate This Week

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Unless something happens to prevent the passage of a tariff bill should be enacted into law and the extraordinary session of congress adjourned before the end of the present week. Inquiry among senators opposed to the adoption of the conference committee report of the Payne-Aldrich bill indicates that the bill will not be extended as it threatened to be a free conference report.

Sen. Aldrich is determined that the conference report should not be passed over into next year. He said yesterday that he would not speak in favor of an hour of the bill and that other members of the majority would not do so. He said that he was opposed to the passing of the bill on that point. He said that all of the republicans who voted against the bill when it was on the passage in the senate will take occasion to explain their action.

Sen. Callahan, leader of the minority, is authority for the statement that the democrats will debate the conference report thoroughly but will not differ from its adoption.

None of the senate leaders predict that a vote will be had on the conference report as early as Thursday and that the special session of congress can be brought to a close on Friday.

WITH THE ORPHANS THE MOHAIR TEAM

Sun Reporter Visits St. Peter's Orphanage on Appleton St.

A black and white line drawing of a forest scene. In the foreground, a large hammock is strung between two trees. Two children are lying in it, looking towards the viewer. A third child is jumping over the hammock from left to right. In the background, another hammock is strung between trees, with two more children lying in it. The forest is depicted with many vertical lines representing trees and some horizontal lines for the ground.

The Good Sisters Keep the 66

Swings and Hammocks in the Children

The Sun of recent date contained an article on one of Lowell's greatest charities, the Day Nursery, and suggested a few little needs for the institution which could be provided at a slight expenditure. There is a good need for charitable work in Lowell, particularly among the charities which look after the children at the Day Nursery and the different pauper schools.

A sterling charitable institution which is seldom heard of but which in its time has cared for thousands of orphans and homeless children in St. Peter's orphanage in Appleton street, conducted for the past 22 years by the Rev. Charles C. Charity of Nazareth, Kennebec street, is the older and larger orphanage in Lowell; and has caused the big brick building in Appleton street in the rear of the old St. Peter's church, long since displaced by this post office, for over a quarter of a century, during most of the time being under the care of the nuns of the Nazareth and attend mass before breakfast. The little ones retire at 7 o'clock each evening and the older girls at 8. They are taught the regular school studies together with plain sewing, fancy work and housework. The orphanage receives girls exclusively. On the first floor is the parlor and a very cosy chapel, in the rear with dining room, kitchen and playroom. In the rear for a large wing added to the building, which gives substantial floor space in the rear and divides the children's yards for playground from a very pretty and well kept garden in which the nuns spend their recreation hours. The second floor contains the school rooms, in firmness, bedrooms and lavatories. The dormitories are on the third and fourth floors. In relation to the inferiority it is the room least used in the building for the health of the institution is perfect and although Fr. Huntress frequently visits the orphanage he seldom

At the present time St. Peter's orphanage has 68 children, within its walls, ranging in ages from 2 to 14 years. Most of them have no friends to pay even a pittance for their support, while for some the institution receives a slight compensation, but by no means equal to the cost of maintenance. The children, however, are all fed on equal footing; none knows what is rich and what is poor.

As this is located in the city where all playing is in the yard when the Sun tempests unfold. They were all interested in a huge sand pile which "contractor Cannon keeps in huge dimensions. The yard in which they play is rocky and is shaded by a number of public trees. The first playground in the portion was the entire absence of interest and engaged as we were the deficit of little ones. The yard is partially occupied for basketball and swings on a sort of "tree shade trees." It would most likely provide the opportunity with a few new ones and bunnies. During the school days the children go to their classes from 9 A.M. to 1 P.M. and from 1 to 2 P.M. attend at the meetings

CABOT STREET BRIDGE

The Cabot street bridge matter should be promptly settled in some way by the city council so that the mill people may not be inconvenienced on their way to and from work.

LITTLE CANADA PLAYGROUND

Little Canada is to be congratulated on securing a public playground. It is greatly needed and should have been provided years ago. Every district in the city but especially those in which there are many children should have a spacious playground.

BOYS' DANGEROUS TOMFOOLERY.

The worst trouble that motormen have is to avoid running over boys who will persist in catching on to the cars, getting in front or so close to the side that the motorman feels that one of them may get under the wheels at any moment. There is altogether too much annoyance of this kind. It is a wonder that there are not more boys killed by the cars as a result of their reckless tomfoolery.

THE MILLS IN CARNIVAL WEEK

Of course not all the mills can afford to shut down during carnival week. Nor should there be any complaint against those that continue to work. If all were to close, the people would not spend so much at the carnival. A large proportion of the operatives will manage to get out at least one day during the carnival and will still have the satisfaction of being paid for the remaining four days of that week.

WHERE WORK IS RUSHING

Work is rushing on Bridge street today. That street will be all right for the carnival and long before. The paving on Merrimack square is being patched so that the surface will be more even. There are many parts of Merrimack street that should be treated in the same way in order to make it safe for automobile travel. At present the paving in many places has sunk leaving dangerous depressions that require attention to prevent jolts and mishaps.

RED-LIGHT POLICE SIGNAL

The Pasadena police have a new scheme which might commend itself to our department as suitable for keeping tabs on the men on outlying beats. It is to have a red light on each police telephone box. This light can be turned on as a call to an officer. The light on every box on an officer's beat can be turned on by the use of plugs at the switch board, thus calling him to the nearest box, whereas by the ordinary method, no order could be issued until the officer "rang in."

The red light system affords a means of keeping in closer touch with the men or of concentrating them in the shortest possible time.

POLLUTION OF RIVERS AND SEWAGE DISPOSAL

The recent conference of state and provincial boards of health of North America, held at Washington, has cast a lurid light on the extent of stream and river pollution in this country.

The country has been built up so rapidly that little attention was given to the proper vent for sewage. The readiest was the nearest running stream or the open sea. Both have been used as the outlet for city sewage until the rivers are polluted to the last degree. In the report presented, considerable space was devoted to the condition of the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers, both of which are very badly polluted.

The committee also gave its attention to the number of sewage disposal plants in operation.

Of the 92 cities and towns in this state there are 19 which employ some form of treatment for the removal of organic matter from the sewage, and there are but few cities that take their water supply from polluted sources.

New Hampshire has no plant for reducing sewage, while the Vermont board of health as a preliminary, has ordered that no sewage be emptied into rivers without its permission and has undertaken also to compel cities to take their water supply from sources approved by the board. As a result, five cities have had to change the sources from which they draw their water supply.

Many of the other states have already begun to dispose of their sewage by filter beds or septic tanks and good results are reported in many instances.

In the state of New Jersey there are 54 sewage purification plants, mostly maintained by municipalities. The policy in force in that state is to allow no untreated sewage to be emptied into the waters of the state. The state board of health is also compelling municipalities to install purification plants on existing sewerage systems, and already 22 municipalities are under orders to cease the pollution of the Delaware river and other waters.

The health board of Ohio has ordered a number of cities to install sewage disposal plants as a result of complaints that the lower part of the state waters had been polluted.

The state of Michigan has adopted a policy similar to that of Ohio, and so with Indiana, Texas and other states that find the public health menaced from the pollution of rivers and by the use of such waters after some process of filtration, as the water supply of cities.

The whole question is one of national importance. It is being turned to the front in every state that suffers in this way and the present scandal when the city of Lowell is connected with others on the banks of the Merrimack will have to change the system of sewerage and adopt some method of sewage disposal that will make it possible to change the vent of our main sewers so that the contents shall not be emptied into the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers. The city council has been for the public good but it is very extensive to the public health and more expensive perhaps to Lowell than to any other city on the banks of the Merrimack.

SEEN AND HEARD

Perhaps you have noticed how much more tolerable it makes the humidity of a hot July day to keep talking about it.

Sometimes when a girl looks in the mirror she can't help wondering a little herself because she is so absolutely free from all conceits.

If all the young men should come to an agreement and stop once for all calling on the girls, would the girls call on the young men?

If ignorance really is bliss, bliss must be much more common than many people think.

A good and his money can make times lively for a while.

A girl may forget some of the things that she had last year for Christmas presents, but she will always remember what happened underneath the mistletoe.

One of the poorest ways to make a hit with a man is to strike him for a fault.

A girl will never be offended if the gloves in the box a young man sends her are a size too small, but he ought not to make a mistake the other way.

Somebody has raised the question, "Should actresses wed?" but the actresses are not waiting for the answer.

The Sherlock Holmes business is easy enough, after all. If you see three or four blades of ink on the tablecloth you know right away that somebody has been filling a fountain pen.

The man who habitually gets up at ten o'clock in the forenoon would rather stay up all night than get up once a week at five o'clock in the morning.

Now is the time to mention casually the things you would like, as possible innocent suggestions for this year's Christmas presents. Everybody will forget all about most of them before Christmas comes, but possibly one or

TWO PRINCES IN COMMAND AT BARCELONA: SCENES WHERE FIERCE BATTLE TOOK PLACE

BARCELONA, Aug. 2.—Despite the terrible reverses that the Spanish forces have met in Morocco, where more than 3000 men were killed and wounded on the Spanish side in one engagement, the result in Catalonia completely overshadowed the war in Africa. French officers who are familiar with the country around Melilla, where the fighting is in progress, believe the Spanish army is doomed to certain defeat because Spain is forced to use the flower of the army at home. When the revolt began in Barcelona, the whole Third Fourth army corps and two brigades of cavalry were ordered there from Madrid. The cavalry is under the command of Prince Charles of Bourbon, who married the elder sister of King Alfonso, and Prince Ferdinand of Avaria, who married the other sister, is in command of one of the squadrons. In many instances during the fighting around Barcelona the soldiers refused to fire upon civilians when ordered to do so. Scores of the officers even have no sympathy with the war. Some of the fiercest fighting in Barcelona took place near the famous triumphal arch. It was there that the rebels were surrounded by cavalry and artillery and hundreds of them mowed down by rapid fire guns.

PEOPLE OF NOTE.

Charles F. Smith, a prominent Bostonian, has been elected to the office of mayor of Lowell. He is a native of Lowell and has been a resident of the city for many years. He is a member of the Lowell board of aldermen and has been a member of the city council for several years. He is a well-known and respected citizen of Lowell and his election to the office of mayor is a great honor to the city.

Dr. Doche, French army, says that Spanish soldiers are really the cause of some of the trouble in Spain. Speaking of the soldiers, he says: "They are sometimes called 'military' but they are really something like the boys. Around the pail place a cylinder of tin a little larger than the pail then pack sawdust about the cylinder between pail and cylinder-can to the top of the cylinder. 16 WERE RESCUED GRAY'S IN HARD LUCK

Dangerous Fire in South End Manager is Spending Good Money for Players

DORCHESTER, Aug. 2.—The barn, which was situated on the corner of the street, was destroyed by a fire which broke out at 10 o'clock last night. The fire was caused by a gas lamp which had been left burning. The fire spread rapidly and the barn was completely destroyed. The fire was discovered by a man who was passing by. He called out to the neighbors and they tried to extinguish the fire. The fire was too large, however, and the barn was destroyed. The fire was caused by a gas lamp which had been left burning. The fire spread rapidly and the barn was completely destroyed. The fire was discovered by a man who was passing by. He called out to the neighbors and they tried to extinguish the fire. The fire was too large, however, and the barn was destroyed.

The batting averages to date show that the only man over 300 and that is because he hasn't played in many games as the others, while the best of the remainder are at 250 or thereabouts. Manager Gray has been having the toughest luck that ever visited a manager in quest of players. Many have been recommended to him and he has sent them their transportation and sent them out but one after another they have been found wanting. When a pitcher is recommended by so eminent an authority as Tom McCarthy, formerly of the Boston, goes bad in one inning, is it any wonder that the poor manager is fit to be tied? Instead of encouraging the management the fans should lend their encouragement.

HAROLD DANZIG, Captain Lowell Team.

WEALTHY WOMAN LOSS IS $60,000

Died a Recluse in New York City Fire on Jordan Estate at Plymouth

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Possessed of wealth estimated at $50,000, yet living the life of a recluse, ignoring the world and having no friends, Miss Marie Clementine Sigrist, aged 60, died in her apartment at No. 420 West Forty-seventh street, some time between noon on Thursday and the night of Wednesday of this week. The woman's body, fully dressed, was found Saturday night.

The evidences of wealth in the woman's apartments were abundant. A large stock stable and riding school on the Elton D. Jordan estate at Chiltonville were destroyed by fire yesterday morning, causing a loss estimated at between $30,000 and $70,000. The estate was not occupied.

It is said the fire was first discovered about 3:30 by a milkman, who was on his way to milk his cows. At that time smoke was issuing from the cupola of the stock stable.

Instead of at once giving the alarm the milkman waited until he had milked the cows. Not until his return home did he notify anyone of the blaze.

At 5 o'clock, upon hearing the news, Arthur Churchill rang in an alarm from the telephone office near private box 121. Stammer 1, drawn by four horses, responded, but as the estate is four miles away, the two buildings were all ablaze upon his arrival.

The stock stable was situated beside the Sandwich road and was about 200 feet long and two stories high. It was finished in hardwood and contained a large number of stalls. Two five-ton hay racks, the property of Charles A. Stone, who has a summer place on Warren cove, as well as a number of wagons and farming implements, were stored in the stable.

The riding school adjoining the stable, which was also destroyed, was a handsome structure, much larger than the stock stable. It was finished in hardwood and contained a large number of stalls. Two five-ton hay racks, the property of Charles A. Stone, who has a summer place on Warren cove, as well as a number of wagons and farming implements, were stored in the stable.

The cause of the fire is unknown, but it is thought to have been caused by a gas lamp which had been left burning. The fire spread rapidly and the barn was completely destroyed. The fire was discovered by a man who was passing by. He called out to the neighbors and they tried to extinguish the fire. The fire was too large, however, and the barn was destroyed.

who was trying to do the right thing and it was rather unkind of the crowd who go to a game once a week, or once a month to get after him as some of them did on Saturday. Few minor league teams have ever been known to pay money to go out and find bad players, but Manager Gray has done so and he has written to baseball authorities and sporting editors all over the country.

CITY EMPLOYEES

Held a Great Convention in Newton Yesterday

NEWTON, Aug. 2.—A resolution that law which says that employees shall not work over eight hours, said Mayor Hutchinson.

"If employees are willing I see no harm in them working more than eight hours if they wish," he continued. "I believe there will be a modification before many years in the present law. I believe that during the eight hours employees should give faithful service, but I do not go so far as to say that they should not smoke during working hours, although it has been claimed that a half-hour is occupied in every eight in 'lighting-up'." he added.

Speaking of the relations between the heads of departments and employees in this city, he said that there is one employee who has been in service of the city 35 years, one 37 years, live 36, eight 35 and eight from 25 to 30 years. There are 27 of these, he said, between the ages of 65 and 70. These statistics won for the mayor a round of applause and he was given a rising vote of appreciation.

Representative William H. O'Brien of Boston spoke on the labor question as it applies to government employees. He said that the federal government has a long list of employees, many of whom are over 65 years of age. ROBBED OF $230

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Arthur T. Gallup, who says he lives at the Stratford Hotel, reported to the police of division 2 yesterday that he was robbed of $230 at the Rowes wharf elevated station yesterday morning.

Mr. Gallup was just about to go on the steps to the elevated when three men passed him. He did not pay much attention to them at the time, but when he looked for money to pay his fare he discovered that he had been robbed.

Mr. Gallup could not give much of a description of the three men. He thought each was about 25 years old and perhaps 5 feet 10 inches in height. He said they were all dressed in dark clothing.

The police took Mr. Gallup to police headquarters, where he looked over the wanted gallery. It is said that he indicated one or two local pickpockets as the ones who robbed him.

Figures in a New York Disappearance Mystery

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—What future revelation of robbery, or never-to-be-told story of suicide or murder, lies in mystery of the alligator bag found in the bottom of the steamer City of Worcester, and which, literally packed with diamonds and money, has been unclaimed for three weeks in the office of the liner.

By the post office "G. L. W." on its side, the bag itself, which, in due to its owner. None of the many who have called in answer to an advertisement and tried to describe what it contains has given a hint of knowledge as to its treasure which "G. L. W." does not or cannot claim.

Find Name on Picture
But in examining an old, engraved-type taken from the bag last night there was found under the framed picture of a man in the dress of 60 years ago this inscription:

One of the strangest facts in the mystery is that the fortune in the alligator bag was undiscovered until last Thursday. From July 9 until that day it had lain, unopened and unopened in the office of J. A. Ganger, vice-pres-

PRES. PULLIAM'S FUNERAL
LOUISVILLE, Aug. 2.—Silence rests upon the diamonds of the major league ball players today and the principal ball players of the national game have assembled in Louisville to pay the last tribute to Harry Pulliam, late president of the National League, whose tragic death in New York cost a shadow over the baseball world.

The body of Mr. Pulliam arrived at 11:15 this morning, accompanied by J. P. Gage, Pulliam's brother, G. W. Cain of Nashville, his brother-in-law and Harry W. Russell, one of Mr. Pulliam's closest friends. The body was taken at once to an undertaking establishment. The services were held an hour later in the chapel at Cave Hill and were conducted by Rev. T. M. Hawes, a Presbyterian minister. The funeral offerings were many, and came from all parts of the country.

LOWELL PEOPLE
WENT TO LYNN BEACH IN LARGE NUMBERS

Every Sunday takes a great many Lowell people to Lynn beach and yesterday the number was larger than usual. The long sweep of beach, the sun bathing without crowding at any point and then the pleasure of a trip to Rock Point adds to the enjoyment. The ride on the electric cars via Reading is delightful.

Last night there was delay owing to the breakdown of a jumbo car, but it was unavoidable.

BUICKS BARRED

From Competing in National Stock Car Race

No Objection Here

A rather peculiar condition of affairs in connection with the National Automobile Club is being held here in September was brought to light this afternoon when it was learned that according to the rules governing the race the Buick cars are barred from entering the National Stock Car Chassis competition (the big race) for the Lowell trophy, because the piston displacement of the Buick cars is much smaller than the minimum allowed in the rules governing the race.

A. J. Brush, general manager of the General Motor Co., and William H. Pickens, who has charge of the racing public and advertising departments, came to Lowell this afternoon and conferred with President Heinze and members of the board of governors of the Lowell Automobile club relative to allowing the Buicks to enter the big race. It was then hinted that some of the big manufacturers are out to "freeze" the Buick cars out of as many racing events as possible owing to the fact that despite the small piston displacement and low price of the Buick it has the speed and has been winning everything of note of late. In fact the Buick cars have won ninety per cent. of the trophies offered in competition this year.

It was the intention of the management to enter in the 24-hour race at Brighton beach Friday but found that it was also barred from that race inasmuch as any cars selling for less than $2500 are barred.

There is any commercialism being exercised in connection with the rules laid down for the big race in this city is not being done by the Lowell Automobile club, for the board of governors of the local club are anxious to have the Buicks entered in all the races. These machines have made a wonderful showing and the public is all the faster.

The gentleman who came here in the interest of the Buick car was informed that the matter will be gone over as soon as possible and an early report would be submitted to them.

In the event of the Buicks being barred from the big race none of those who will be entered in the class race will be held on Monday and inasmuch as the Buick people intend to enter their cars in the races, to lose that number of entrants would tend to lessen materially the interest in the event.

Piston Displacement Too Small
The rules governing the big race as laid down by the contest committee of the A. A. A. are in part as follows: "The minimum weight of cars shall be 2500 lbs. and the minimum weight of the engine shall be 450 lbs. The piston displacement of the Buick cars is 318 cubic inches, which is less than the minimum stipulated in the rules.

On the face of it it would appear that the Buick would enter such a race under a great disadvantage to themselves and that it would be to the advantage of the cars with larger piston displacement to allow them in as they would not be dangerous competitors, but the Buick have time and again proven that despite their small piston displacement the power to win the races is there.

Last year the rules governing the race were stretched a point in order to allow the Buick to enter the piston displacement of that car being larger than the maximum laid down in the rules. There might be good and sufficient reason for barring a car with a large displacement out of a race, but to bar one with a smaller displacement seems to be something out of the ordinary, and it would appear that there is a "creeper in the woodpile."

This year the rules governing the race are according to the A. A. A. and therefore it is up to that body to say whether or not the Buick will be allowed to compete. From a standpoint of fair and clean sportsmanship it would seem that there is nothing for the contest board to do but allow these cars a chance.

The only objection that the Times A. A. A. could raise relative to a car with a smaller piston displacement would be where a car would be so slow that it would do more towards retarding and endangering the speed of the other cars, but in the case of the Buick such an objection could not stand for a moment.

The entire course, Varnum avenue, will be closed either at night or early Saturday morning and will remain closed to a certain extent until the carnival is over. Passes will be issued to residents of that thoroughfare as well as the side streets leading from it, and such residents can pass during the day and will be exempted from the usual charges as the race is in progress. Business men and other people who have legitimate reasons to use Varnum avenue will also be given passes and can use the street.

The only time that the street will be closed to them will be between 10 a. m. and 12 p. m. and the time the race is over, between 12 p. m. and 1 p. m. and the time the race is over and during the motorcycle race on Friday. That is done to insure safety to those that are going by.

At all times during the week the thoroughfare will be closed to visitors for the expense of running the races is enormous and there must be some revenue to pay the expenses. Such revenue cannot be raised in one day to meet the expenses and therefore it is no more than right that a slight fee be charged for those who wish to go over the course.

It would seem that the club is entitled to at least 25 cents from each person who wishes to witness the race. The club is also indebted to the citizens of Lowell and it is with that in view that they are going to charge admission to the race course.

A number of Lowell citizens have contributed towards making the 25-cent guarantee fund and it is the aim of the club to repay those contributors and to bring money to Lowell.

President Gets Tariff Conferees Together Again

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—With the tariff conference report facing, threatened defeat in the senate on account of an alleged "joker" in the hide and leather compromise, it was decided at 1 p. m. today to reassemble the conference committee for the purpose of preparing an official explanation. The conferees will meet at 3 p. m. today.

President Taft was largely responsible for the reassembling. The action of western republican senators, backed by democratic members, in compelling the reading of the report in full, enabled the supporters of the conference report to take a new poll of the senate. Much to their surprise they found that their previous canvasses were valueless. This seemed to be a revolt among the westerners on account of the phraseology that had been adopted by the conferees in adjusting the differences in the hide and leather paragraph. Some of the dissatisfied senators said that the duty on boots and shoes had not been reduced to 10 per cent, as claimed by the conferees.

THE LID IS OFF

The Old Saratoga Race Track is Alive Again

SARATOGA, Aug. 2.—It looks like old times—the wide-open track for a couple of years back—for the racing season which will begin here today and continue all the month.

It looks as though horse racing is going to get going here today, which is pretty nearly the same as it was summer before last, prior to Governor Hughes' crusade and the Axtell-Hart law, which was supposed to be a new

It was announced today that the "field" will be open tomorrow and thereafter, and that there will be betting in the "field." And that means many things, the principal one of which is that the "field" start has been laughed at and that race-track gambling will have come back into its own again.

"Good, betting," the kind that has been in operation on the Long Island shore, where there is no tax on bets in the cheap enclosure, where $1 is charged for admission, and $1 and $2 bets are accepted gladly by the book-makers.

Fare Bank Men on Hand

Those fond of hording their money by other means than on the speed of horses also received cheering tidings when they got here. About twenty found laid a dozen "crows" of fare bank and roulette men, who did not seem to intend that they were here for "action," and that there would be plenty of it when they got started. And they expected to get started tonight, quick, they said. Before the crusade of last year, there was plenty of the "crows" and four big and splendidly appointed houses in Saratoga. A wiping out losing of $200,

Oral Bets Impossible
No one can believe that the gold bookmakers will know and trust the thousands who will place bets with them. At the Metropolitan sources this was the case, the bettors were known to the layers of odds, they were men who could afford to bet at least $5 or $10 on every race; the bet was an oral transaction, and settlement was made after the last race. The bettors and the layers trusted each other.

But with thousands of strangers crowding the field everywhere—men who will not know the bookmakers and whom the bookmakers will not know—any betting that is done will have to be on a strictly cash basis, the money being passed over to the bookies before each race and passed back to the winners after each race.

To the attack of these bookmakers it will be the job of the lawyers to take down the hedge managers and the bookmakers, just as in days of yore. And that means that bookmaking will be in vogue, despite the prohibitions of the Agrawest State law. The "piker" who bets his dollar and the "biker" bookmaker, with a bankroll of a couple of hundred dollars, each will be in his glory.

Association's Word is Law

And the "regulars" are asking each other—if these conditions obtain in the field, will the grand stand betting enclosure be run differently?

Sheriff to "Oversee" Betting

The opening of the "Belt" tomorrow is about as big a step as can be taken in the direction of the Agrawest State law. Hugh W. Lutz, who has just passed racing about New York away to three days a week, with only a few strictly "oral" wagers. To name the favorable "Bischoff" deck, the "Bischoff" deck, the "Bischoff" deck, and the number of bettors, although not number of racing days, increased.

Then came Justice Gardner's absolute confirmation of the legality of betting. The Metropolitan association started four days of racing each week. Along came the Yonkers racing every day racing and big crowds. Now comes Saratoga with six days a week for four weeks and an open

Some of the disappointed tracks had opened its head since the anti-gambling law went into effect—their owners realizing that it would be impossible to avoid open defiance of the law.

The people of Saratoga don't believe there will be much interference last fall, after a two weeks' race in which only three days a week of action—they voted into office an entirely set of officials on the "more liberal platform." Saratoga wants the music; it can't get it without liberality, too. The money and the band will come this year—everybody here declares Saratoga is going to get the money.

ON THE COMMON

Big Meeting by the Law and Order League

About 1000 people attended the open-air meeting by the Law and Order League on the South common, yesterday afternoon. Rev. N. W. Matthews was in charge of the meeting and the speakers included Rev. J. W. Stephan, Rev. George P. Kinnegott, and others. The meeting was under the auspices of the Good Templar societies of the city and the "Temple" songs were sung to the accompaniment of a cornet.

The evil of the liquor traffic and the curse of drink were touched upon by the speakers. Rev. Mr. Stephan said it almost appeared as if the American people were given more to the breach than to the observance of the law, more by accident, however, than a disposition to break the law. To illustrate what he meant in this connection he spoke of the over-speeding of automobiles, bicyclists who would take the sidewalk when the street was a little rough or muddy. He said his attention was many times attracted by the "no smoking" signs in public conveyances, especially in boats. The signs were everywhere but seldom respected. Men would glance at the sign and continue to smoke with impunity. He referred to the sign "no dogs allowed" in the public gardens in Boston, yet there were dogs on all sides.

From these little breaches of the law he led up to acts of greater criminality and referred to violations of the law by saloon and hotel keepers. He said the saloon and hotel man did not always break the law because he wanted to but more especially to satisfy a demand on the part of a customer feeling, apparently, that the demand of his customer was of greater importance than a strict observance of the law. He said there were men in public office who violated their oaths of office more because of the demand made upon them by their constituents than their desire to do wrong.

Mr. Stephan made a brief address on "True Patriots." First he referred to the man who loves local things. "We should love the things that are beautiful in our city," he said. "Instead of forever condemning the wrongs that were being enacted we should give our eyes to the things that are good and the things that are beautiful."

He said that the true patriot has a

ST. LOUIS PLUNGER ARRESTED IN FRANCE AND HIS WEALTHY WIFE

ST. DECREASE NOTED In Live Stock and Grain Movement

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Improved conditions in railway traffic and in the movements of coke ore are characteristic of the June internal Commerce report of the bureau of commerce and labor. The live stock, grain, and provision movements show a decrease in volume compared with the figures of the corresponding month of last year, and extreme activity in building which characterized the reports of the earlier months of the year shows some signs of abatement.

Live-stock receipts during the month at 7 interior primary markets, 2,962, 924 head, show a considerable decrease as compared with like figures for June, 1908 and 1907, 3,255,561 and 3,255,561, and 3,202,033 head. Smaller receipts are shown for all classes of animals except calves. The decrease affects all important centers with the exception of Kansas City, which reports larger arrivals of all classes of live stock except horses and mules. The total number of cars used in handling the inbound movement during the month was 51,582, compared with 55,190 and 69,144 cars reported for June, 1908 and 1907. Live-stock arrivals at the same centers for the six months ending June totaled 1,981,725 head, compared with 2,920,933 and 2,920,242 head for the same period in 1908 and 1907. The smaller total is due mainly to the smaller receipts of hogs and cattle. The receipts during the first half of the year at Chicago of hogs alone, 4,017,538 head, were about 15 per cent. below those reported for the first six months in 1908. The calculated number of inbound live-stock cars was 32,513 for the six-month period of the current year, compared with 35,302 and 37,150 cars reported for the same period in 1908 and 1907.

A similar decline in the monthly receipts of live stock is shown for the four principal Atlantic seaport cities, the June, 1909, figures, 156,247 head, being over 7 per cent. below the June, 1908, figures. The main losses occurred under the head of hogs, and cattle, though even calves and sheep show smaller figures than a year ago. The showing for the six-month period is even more unfavorable, the 150,000 head, 442,183 head, being about 7 per cent. below the corresponding total in 1908, though the number of sheep received for the six months was larger than a year ago.

The June shipments of packing-house products from Chicago, 150,000, 667 pounds, were likewise smaller than the June, 1908 and 1907, figures of 204,823 and 154,815 pounds. The less favorable showing in the current year is due to smaller shipments of fresh beef, corned and cured meats, and lard. Lard, beef and hams, on the other hand, show a heavier outbound movement than a year ago. Shipments for the first six months of the year, 1,019, 18,550 pounds, however show a decline as compared with the figures for the two earlier years; the losses being quite marked in the case of fresh beef, corned meats, hams, and lard, while pickled beef, cured meats and lard appear to have been shipped in larger quantities than during the first half of the preceding year. The outward movement of exports of provisions for the month, 1,019, 18,550 pounds, compared with June, 1908 and 1907, figures of 1,019, 18,550 and 1,019, 18,550 pounds, shows a decline in the current year. The six months' figures for this movement, 4,418, 18, 550 pounds, show a decline of 10 per cent. from the 1908 total, and a decline of 15 per cent. from the 1907 total. The decline in the current year is due to smaller shipments of fresh beef, corned and cured meats, and lard. Lard, beef and hams, on the other hand, show a heavier outbound movement than a year ago. Shipments for the first six months of the year, 1,019, 18,550 pounds, however show a decline as compared with the figures for the two earlier years; the losses being quite marked in the case of fresh beef, corned meats, hams, and lard, while pickled beef, cured meats and lard appear to have been shipped in larger quantities than during the first half of the preceding year. The six months' figures for this movement, 4,418, 18, 550 pounds, show a decline of 10 per cent. from the 1908 total, and a decline of 15 per cent. from the 1907 total.

which shows a decline of 10 per cent. from the 1908 total, and a decline of 15 per cent. from the 1907 total.

The pig-iron output during the month, 1,299,884 gross tons, was larger than for any month since October, 1907, notwithstanding the fact that several of the merchant furnaces show a reduced output. The improvement in the iron trade is seen best from the fact that the monthly take shipments of iron ore from Lake Superior and Lake Michigan points, 5,250,000 gross tons, were more than double shipments reported for June of last year.

The monthly wool receipts at Boston, 47,378,265 pounds, were almost double the June, 1908, receipts, both the domestic and foreign wools, sharing in the increase. Shipments of wool during the month, 16,294,487 pounds, were below those reported for June, 1908.

Building operations in 57 leading American cities, as measured by the value of permits granted, show a total of $55,123,290, which is 17 per cent. less than that reported for May of the same year, though still 11 per cent. larger than the June, 1908, total.

General traffic activity on the railroads during June, as shown by the number of cars handled by 35 car-service associations and demurrage bureaus, 2,044,521 cars, shows a slight improvement as compared with the same month of the preceding year. The number of cars handled during the month, as compared with the number reported for June, 1908, is not less than 15 per cent.

THE TARIFF BILL

To be Passed by Senate This Week

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Unless something happens to provoke heated discussions of a political character the new tariff bill should be enacted into law and the extraordinary session of congress adjourned before the end of the present week. Inquiry among senators opposed to the adoption of the conference committee report of the Payne-Adrian bill indicates that the debate will not be as extended as it threatened to be before the conference report.

Sen. Aldrich is determined that the conference report shall not be carried over into next week. He said yesterday that he would not speak longer than an hour or two and that other members of the committee would occupy comparatively little time. It is probable that senators who were opposed to the placing of hides on the free list will have something to say on that subject and that all of the republicans who voted against the bill when it was on its passage in the senate will take occasion to explain their action.

Sen. Culberson, leader of the minority, in authority for the statement that the democrats will debate the conference report thoroughly but will not filibuster against its adoption.

Some of the senate leaders predict that a vote will be had on the conference report as early as Thursday and that the special session of congress can be brought to a close on Friday.

THE WAR GAME

$500,000 Will Be Required to Cover the Cost

Not since the days of the Civil war has Massachusetts seen such a gathering of armed men as will participate in the war game of Aug. 14 to 21. Defending Boston, the capital, particularly, and endeavoring to stem the invasion of 2000 men of the New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and District of Columbia National Guards will be the 7000 members of the Massachusetts militia, augmented by the assistance of three troops of regular cavalry. The cavalry force will probably be chosen from the ranks of the "Fighting 10th," the colored regiment recently stationed at Fort Ethan Allen, Vt.

While the maneuvers are expected to be confined to the southern counties of Bristol and Plymouth, unexpected strength or strategy by the invading army may lead to a more northerly line of resistance. Unusual successes in the early engagements might possibly result in an actual threatening of Boston.

Sealed orders will govern most of the general movements, so that there can be no certainty as to impending operations. Under the supposition that the attacking force is led by a strong naval display, the invaders are conceded the strategic ability to land their forces. They will attempt to fight their way through the state, but the defenders assembled in Boston on the afternoon of Saturday, Aug. 14, will be notified promptly of the place or places of disembarkment. Warned of the landing, the defenders are to be pushed to the scene, undoubtedly a place bordering on Buzzards bay. The further maneuvers are either problematical or unannounced.

The defenders will be so arranged as to deploy the 7000 troops upon a frontage of more than 30 miles. This initial line of defense, the outermost of the line, will be extended according to the strength of the offense, will extend from Plymouth, bordering Cape Cod bay on the east, to the town of Mansfield, close to the Massachusetts-Rhode Island boundary on the west.

While these maneuvers do not mark any radical departure from what has been in previous years, particularly at Pine camp last year, at Milton and at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., there are still new features and combinations or omissions of features which are innovations. The problems confronting both sides to these operations will be read and cannot be solved by prearranged reckoning. Hitherto most of the war games have been stereotyped.

A TRADE SCHOOL
For Shoemakers Opened at Beverly Today

BEVERLY, Aug. 2.—A school for the education of young men in the construction and operation of the numerous and different machines used in the manufacture of shoes was opened in this city today. This is one of the first day trade schools established in the state and is the outgrowth of the activity of the Massachusetts commission on industrial education.

The factory department of the school is located in the immense plant of the United Shoe Machinery company here, where every form of machine used in the shoe trade is manufactured, while theoretical instruction will be given in the new high school building.

BIRTHDAY PARTY
JOSEPH O'BRIEN SURPRISED BY HIS FRIENDS

The many friends of Joseph O'Brien, the popular member of the board of directors of the Catholic Young Men's League, treated him to a genuine surprise at his home on Worthen street last Friday evening, when they discovered upon his residence, made him aware that the day was the anniversary of his birth, and that they had been prepared to celebrate it in a "tip room" style, as the spokesman of the crowd put it. When the surprised "Joe" had fully recovered from the "unexpected" party started on an evening of song and enjoyment which was only terminated at the midnight hour. During the evening the host was presented with numerous presents, among which was a beautiful gold-mounted pipe. Mr. Andrew Smith in behalf of the Y. M. C. friends made the presentation. Patrick Delaney, Joseph Riley and Patrick Harrington displayed their ability as singers. The C. Y. M. L. quartet, composed of Andrew Smith, William Christie, George Delaney and John McDermott, rendered some very pleasing selections. Misses Esther McKee, Mae Hogan, Josephine Rodan, Katherine Donahue and Josephine Donahue gave piano solos.

BEING ORGANIZED IN THE BISCAYAN REGION

PARIS, Aug. 2.—Although official Spain minimizes the Catalan insurrection and insists that the revolt has been crushed, a far different story emanates from the frontier. Refugees and travelers declare that the revolt is still rampant and that desperate combats continue at Barcelona where 50 revolutionaries are reported to have been wounded in a conflict which occurred as late as Saturday night.

Information concerning the actual situation in Barcelona and the rest of the province was rather last night than ever before. Although some of the news from the frontier is from revolutionary sources, and therefore open to suspicion, more reliable information leads to the belief that, although Barcelona is calmer, the insurrection has taken on a more serious and menacing country, where they are sowing the seeds of revolt and inflaming the populace to maintain the struggle to the bitter end. Barcelona province is in the hands of prowling bands of workmen, heavily armed, who occupy the railroads and highways to prevent communication and who refuse entrance to new comers. Cassan De La Selva is in the hands of the revolutionaries and at Patamos, where the monastery was fired upon and the monks tortured, the situation is described as alarming, and the lives of foreigners endangered.

From Madrid come the news of the situation is pessimistic and the belief is expressed that the trouble is not yet over. Official Madrid announces that Barcelona is tranquil, but qualifies this statement with the words "this is especially so in the center of the city."

DROWNING YESTERDAY

Joseph Bottomley of Lowell Drowned at Salisbury Beach

Joseph Bottomley, aged 55, of Lowell, was drowned while bathing at Salisbury beach yesterday.

He went there with his wife to visit his daughter, Mrs. C. Campbell, and half an hour after eating a hearty shore dinner went into the water. He was attacked with acute indigestion and drowned before help could reach him. He was a machinist by trade and lived in the Vermont block, Bridge street. A widow, two sons and a daughter survive him. The remains were brought to this city late this afternoon by Undertaker McKenna.

IN POLICE COURT AN AUTO DITCHED
Some Disturbers Were Fined in Court

That the shooting of craps continues to be one of the attractions of the young men is evidenced by the appearance of offenders in police court from time to time. Yesterday the police were notified that there was a game in progress on the South common and Court Officers Goodwin and Whitney were detailed to investigate the matter.

On the way to the common they went through an alleyway leading from Winter street and before they knew it had come upon a crowd of boys who were playing the game. Two other boys, Stephen Corbett and Frank Silva, were placed under arrest. In court this morning they were charged with being present at a game on the Lord's Day, found guilty and fined $2 each.

Interfered With an Officer
There was a beefsteak in the vicinity of Davidson street Saturday night and as the guests departed several were in a condition that warranted their arrest. George Piller, Peter Michel and Walter Gossely were among those who were given a first ride in the patrol wagon to the police station.

Used Profane Language
Hugh Penney, while in an intoxicated condition, Saturday night, went out to Lakewood. His actions caused Special Officer Donahue to arrest him and coming in on the car Penney used language that was not polite. In court he was charged with drunkenness and using profane language. He was found guilty on both charges and fined $15 for using profane language and the case of drunkenness was filed.

Others Offenders
James Mulcrone, a parole man from the state farm, will be returned to that institution. Timothy Desmond, John O'Donnell and John E. Laurence were fined $5 each.

Was Fined $12
Philip Langlois, charged with drunkenness and exposing his person, was found guilty and fined $12.

THAW HEARING ON
Third Week Opens With Packed Court

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 2.—The third week of the supreme court hearing on Harry K. Thaw's habeas corpus proceedings to secure his release from the state hospital for criminal insane opened today with no diminution of interest so far as this village is concerned. Expectation that the Mattheawan prisoner or his pretty wife might take the stand again at any minute packed the court room long before ten o'clock when Justice Isaac N. Mills opened the morning session. Efforts of his two days' respite showed in Thaw's face and manner when he entered the room. The tension is evidently telling on him, but this morning his eyes were clearer and his movements less nervous than on Friday afternoon, when he was released from his twelve hour sequestration by District Attorney Jerome, culminating in the unexpected invasion of questions by Justice Mills.

District Attorney Jerome took up the reading of testimony from the second trial where he left off last Friday afternoon.

NO COFFIN NAILS
Anti-Cigaret Law Goes on in Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 2.—The clear is an outlook in Minnesota. The new state law prohibiting the sale into effect yesterday, and it is now impossible to get them on the market.

The clear market assumed a peculiar phase in the closing hours. The price varied and was as unsettled as the stock market and a flurry in Wall street. Early in the evening there was a shortage in popular brands of cigars, stores and clerks sent up prices. Reports came in from other sections of the city that a fresh supply had arrived which caused a rush to these stores.

The prices were kept at a high level. At least a million cigars were sold in Minneapolis during the day. Nearly every store in the city had sold almost its entire supply before the end came.

TWO SWINGS
HAVE BEEN RECEIVED BY DAY NURSERY

As the result of an article published in The Sun recently relative to the Day Nursery, two fine swings, just what were needed, have been received from the White state in Merrimack street, and the other from Mr. Nelson of the Colonial building. The management of the Day Nursery is deeply grateful to the donors, while the delight of the children knows no bounds.

COTTON SCHEDULE

Senate Clerk Skipped It in Reading the Report

Was Promptly Interrupted by Several Senators—Lively Time at Reading of Conference Report on Tariff Bill at Opening of the Senate Today

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Within less than three minutes after convening today at the usual hour of ten o'clock, the senate was engaged in the reading of the conference report on the tariff bill.

Not to exceed seven or eight senators were in their seats and of them only Senator Hughes of Colorado represented the democratic side. Senator Aldrich was there, however, and as there was no routine business Mr. Aldrich caught the eye of the chair as soon as the reading of the journal had been completed, and rising, as he said, to present a privileged matter, received immediate recognition.

The reading clerk proceeded with the committee report of the long procedure in conference and by the time the reading had gotten well under way, a number of other senators had taken their seats. All gave close attention to the report.

Moving ahead as rapidly as possible in running over the amendments offered to the conference report, the reading clerk was interrupted by Senator Heyburn.

"The clerk has made no reference to the maximum and minimum provisions," he said, addressing the presiding officer.

"He omitted the cotton schedule," declared Mr. Clapp.

"It is obvious that at least twenty pages have been turned over without reading," said Mr. Culberson, joining the two republican senators in insisting upon a careful compliance with the rules.

It was evident that there was a "situation" on and it was soon made plain that it was the intention of some of the senators, both "insurgent" republican and straight democratic, to have read every word of the long report, which means great delay, notwithstanding the early start.

"What does it all mean?" was asked of one of the "insurgents."

"It means," he replied, "that if this bill becomes a law it will not go beyond the next election."

"How are you going to insure that result?" was the inquiry.

"By ventilation" was the terse reply.

Further inquiry failed to develop any understanding among the original insurgents, and their allies, the hide men, who were represented by Senator Heyburn in his remarks. That they would be able to get together or that even so there would be enough of them when united with the democrats to defeat the conference report, was uncertain. The democrats and the more radical of the "insurgents" were quite determined to enforce regularly and throw all the light possible on the measure.

By this time nearly all the senators on both sides of the chamber had taken their seats and the reading was resumed, the senators who had declared themselves in favor of the reading of every word of the report irregularly paying no further attention to it.

Renewed public interest in the proceedings was shown by the large attendance in the galleries.

MRS. FRED TINSDALE
Drowned While Bathing in Hart's Pond at South Chelmsford

Mrs. Fred Tinsdale, aged 46 years, of Springfield, Mass., was drowned in Hart's pond, South Chelmsford, yesterday.

Mrs. Tinsdale was the guest of Mrs. Arthur I. Hill of Chelmsford Centre at her camp and about 10:30 o'clock in the morning went out in a boat with her brother-in-law, Earl T. Goodnow, for the purpose of having a swim. They anchored about thirty feet off the shore and entered the water. Mrs. Tinsdale taking the shore side of the boat while Mr. Goodnow swam toward the center of the pond.

Mrs. Tinsdale swam to the shore and then started back for the boat. On the way she appeared to be in difficulty, and Mr. Goodnow, swimming for her and supporting her, swam for the boat calling for help.

V. A. French of Lowell, who was in a camp nearby, ran into the water, fully clothed, and when he reached them Mr. Goodnow started to bring the boat which had drifted away. In his endeavors to keep both afloat, Mr. French lost his hold on Mrs. Tinsdale, who sank in about fifteen feet of water, not to reappear. As she went down, he made an effort to hold her by her hair, but her bathing cap came off in his hand.

The body was recovered an hour later by James Alcom, who was in a boat with Ray S. and Lyman Byam. Dr. Scobaria of Chelmsford was summoned by telephone and every possible means of resuscitation resorted to, but without avail. The body was viewed during the afternoon by Medical Examiner J. V. Meigs and later taken in charge by Undertaker Healey of Lowell.

Mrs. Tinsdale had been spending the summer at Provincetown for the benefit of her health and was considered a good swimmer in salt water. She is survived by a husband, an engineer at Springfield, Mass., who was at once notified of the sad affair.

SONDER RACES
Arrangements for Trials at Marblehead

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., Aug. 2.—The racing rules which will govern the German-American sonder yacht trials, the first of the three American and German yachts, will be held at Marblehead, Mass., on Aug. 15, 16 and 17, after which the committee plan to eliminate three or four yachts from each division and combine the survivors into one fleet for three days, after which it is hoped that a final selection can be made. All the show that the yachts in the contest, which will begin on Aug. 15, will be set off on what is known as the German system, in which a black ball will be hoisted at fifteen second intervals in the numerous open races which will be held in Massachusetts bay in the next two weeks.

UNREST IN INDIA ADDS TO BRITAIN'S BURDEN

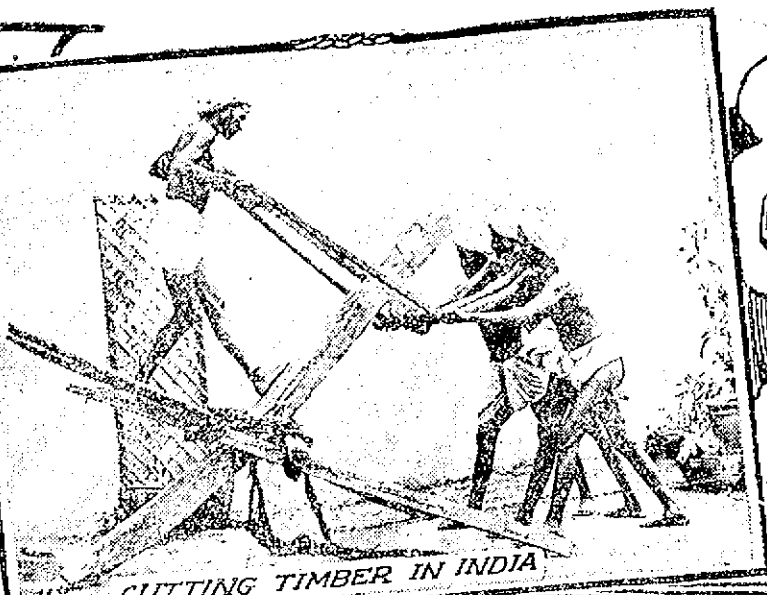

SIR JOHN MORLEY
SECRETARY FOR INDIA

By J. A. EDGERTON.

It has been slightly over a century and a half since England came into general control of India, and during the first century of that time her rule was marked by uprisings and mutinies. One prolific source of these rebellions was the fact that she turned out her sovereignty to a private corporation, the East India company. Like all private corporations, the East India company looked out for its own selfish ends and had little concern for the interests of Britain and still less for the welfare of India. In the last great mutiny, in which Cawnpur was lost to the British and a general massacre of whites followed which respected neither age nor sex, the home government learned the great lesson that public concerns should be looked after by public agencies, abolished the East India company and made the government of its greatest and most populous province directly responsible to the crown. Since the inauguration of the new and wiser policy the revolts in India have been of a minor character and relations have been more nearly amicable.

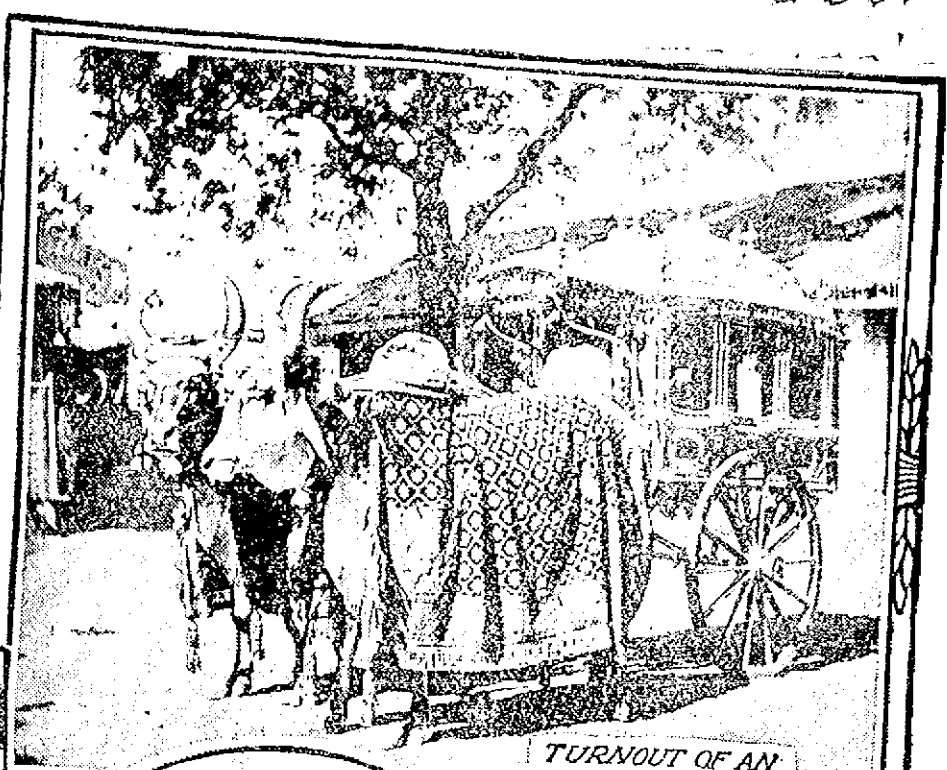

The recent murder of Sir William Curzon Wylie, an assistant in the Indian office in London, by Mahar Lal Dhilligari, an Indian student, has aroused fears that the days of the mutinies might return. Dhilligari not only killed Colonel Wylie, but Dr. Cawas Lalaca of Shanghai. But this was not intended, according to the assassin's story, Dr. Lalaca meeting his death only because he interfered. The act was the more surprising in that Colonel Wylie had always been a warm friend of India, had devoted a lifetime to an attempt to befriend the natives and give them a larger share in the government and was at the time of his death the right hand man of Lord John Morley, the secretary for India, whose policy has been so liberal in giving the Hindus a larger share of home rule that he has aroused a storm of criticism in England. Yet Dhilligari declares that his purpose was to free India and he thought a step toward this end could be taken by striking down some prominent Britisher. Like many of the India students in London, he is known to have imbibed anarchist principles and to have been a follower of Krishnavarma's "Indian Sociologist," which preaches revolutionary doctrines, and revolutionary doctrines backed by force. The Indian student body in London has disavowed Dhilligari's act, but this it would naturally do as a matter of self protection. The thing that most concerns the London government is the fear that not only other students, but native sentiment, is in sympathy with the assassin's principles and that his deed is a portent of disorders to follow. Elements of Unrest. While the general opinion is that Dhilligari's act was that of a madman to which no special importance should be attached, there are certain elements in the Indian situation that are disquieting to Britain. It is a growing conviction of sociologists that behind every manifestation of political unrest is an economic cause, and this is especially the case in India. Through England's policy the bulk of native manufactures have been supplanted, thousands have been thrown out of employment, and India has thus been weakened and impoverished for the sake of British factory owners. Not only so, but the old system of storing grain in good years against the seasons of famine has been wiped out, and the horrors of the inevitable famines have been greatly increased in consequence. These are the two crying grievances of the Hindus against English rule. For the mere political sovereignty of an alien power the middle and lower Indian castes care but little. Long accustomed to subjection to the upper caste, they know nothing of liberty or self government and hence, so long as they are left to follow the ways of their fathers, are concerned little as to the particular power that exercises lordship over them. But when their work and livelihood are disturbed, when their very caste system is broken through the throwing out of employment of thousands belonging to some certain trade, they are not so complacent. When, in addition, the stores of grain are depleted and the constant shadow of death by famine is thus made deeper they are yet more disquieted. It is in these economic changes that the causes of Indian unrest among the masses are to be sought. As for the upper caste, it has always resented British rule for the reason that it has concerned itself with politics and therefore considers that its own peculiar realm has been invaded. From this element most of the mutinies of the past have come. But without the co-operation of the lower castes it has been handicapped.

A third source of unrest has now been added in the small but powerful contingent of Hindus that are receiving European education, or education in native schools that are modeled on European lines. These enlightened young men have inevitably imbibed the ideas of modern democracy, and some of them have even espoused socialism and anarchism. It is to this number that Dhilligari belongs.

One significant fact is that London takes a pessimistic view of the situation. England is just now in a gloomy mood over a number of things, however, and her forebodings as to India may be only a part of this general attitude.

The one bright spot in the outlook, from the British viewpoint, is that Lord Morley is still at the helm and, despite this assassination, is going forward firmly to liberalize and humanize the English rule in India.

The Chinese Oligarchy In This Country

Growth of an Organization That is Unrelenting In Its Feuds and a Menace to the Great Cities. Shadow of the Yellow Peril.

In the eucha party in which Ah Sin played it upon Bill Nye, Bret Harle discovered that for ways that are dark and tricks that are vain the heathen Chinese is peculiar. There is more truth than poetry, although the poetry is great in its line, in the conclusion. The opaqueness and duplicity of the character are not confined to cards or any other gambling devices of the race. When the heathen goes into murder he does it in a way that raises an inquiry as to whether there is any "punishment to fit the crime."

The average American shakes his head over conditions resulting from the murder of a white girl in New York city last June in the room of a Chinese who had been "converted" by the missionary efforts of the victim. The recent sentence in Boston of five Chinese to the electric chair next October for the murder of four of their slant eyed countrymen has brought out other facts that have added to the yellow menace in this country.

In every great city in the United States there are two rival organizations—warring factions—known as the On Leong tong and the Hop Sing tong. These are the offshoots of the Chinese Six Companies, the genesis of which is so remote, even in the empire of mystery, that it is known to but few of that land's scholars.

The relentless feuds between these two tong societies in the United States started a score a few weeks ago that reached the state department in Washington and turned in an alarm to the capital of New York state, which was repeated to Mayor McClellan of New York city, who instructed the commissioner of police to invade the Chinese quarter of the metropolis with extra detachments, uniformed members of the force and detectives in plain clothes." For several days the usually stoical countenances of the almond eyed community were awry. The merchants of the quarter sent envoys to the national capital to acquaint the Chinese minister with the situation. In the absence of the minister the embassy hurried the next in authority to the state department.

The commotion in part was caused by an eruptive state in the Hop Sing society brought on over the sentence of the five Chinese in Boston, whose conviction the Hop Sing believed was the work of the On Leong tong. Tom Lee, mayor of Chinatown and a leader of the On Leong tong, which is composed for the most part of merchants in the quarter, got out of the zone threatened with danger at the suggestion of the police. It was the opinion of the inspector who had the job in hand that Chinatown at the time was on the rim of an outbreak and that it was checked at the psychological moment.

The situation was further agitated by the On Leong tong of Boston, who held a meeting to avert what they thought was a plan of the Hop Sing tong to openly avenge the approaching death of the five who had been sentenced to the chair. Conditions cleared, but so intense is the hatred of these societies, one toward the other, and so full of cunning is the race that the police of the cities named have been instructed to keep vigilant watch of the quarter where craft and opium go hand in hand.

It is believed that there has been less sleep recently from drug or otherwise in Chinese quarters generally than for many years. Whenever a policeman "pulls a box" in Chinatown an aggregation of Celestials lines up to watch for the arrest of a suspected highbinder.

Extent of the Oligarchy. The oligarchy of the cunning race in the United States is an alien government permeating the greatest democracy on earth. Their feuds seem to intensify with time. Assaults and murders by "agents" of the rival organizations have been increasing in numbers, and the stealthy manner of executing the crimes has quickly grown until the foreign excrement has become a serious menace to every large city.

According to the last census there were 118,000 Chinese in the United States, 70,000 being in Hawaii and 48,000 in Alaska. They are so bound and welded into societies and so absolutely cut off from all practical amenity to the laws of the land that they constitute a government within this government, totally distinct, totally independent and totally regardless of every principle of the civilization for which the American government stands.

From the Pacific slope to Chicago, from Boston to Baltimore, organizations and clans, fostered by the Six Companies, exact blackmail and hold hundreds or thousands in penance, making the wages they decide to take out, taking back the wages by skillfully planned smuggling devices from frontier to place, smuggling new waves across the Canadian border, bringing them with opium from their own country, killing them ruthlessly if they fall sick and do not die quickly enough to leave a satisfactory margin of profit, burying them and guaranteeing them celestial happiness hereafter, but really directing up their very bones and boiling them with and shipping them back to China for permanent incense-burn.

Knowing that if he should be proved guilty of any crime for which he is arrested he would be pursued by the gangs of his clan until he paid the penalty, a Chinese prisoner is apt to make confession of guilt when entirely innocent. It is this trait in the character which leads the New York police to believe that if the suspect in the Elsie Sigel case is kept in custody long enough he will admit that he did the murder.

In behalf of the Chinese it is asserted that gamblers by nature, they have become robbers and more sullen because the authorities have cut off their games and because of the threat to expatriate those who are being with white women from the unnatural smug-gling.

Salt Rising Bread In Kansas

Novel Hobby of Governor Stubbs, Advocated During His Candidacy, Producing Results Throughout the State.

While nearly every state in the Union was agitating tariff and incidental questions a year ago the Republican candidate for governor of Kansas, Walter Roscoe Stubbs, made salt rising bread one of the issues of the contest. He was elected, and the fact that he has been receiving returns from the housekeepers of his state ever since shows the appeal to a home industry interested. Kansas more than any plank in the platform of leading parties.

While Candidate Stubbs was proclaiming the efficacy of salt rising bread, such as his Quaker mother made, to the multitudes his opponent replied that it was a new brand of Kansas politics to catch the women of the state. The canvass did more than was surmised. It started all the women who heard the candidate in making bread tests. According to reports, it is estimated that one-half the women of the state have not only experimented with the suggestion, but they have sent to the governor the result of their work. The executive desk is piled daily with letters about salt rising bread. Usually the issues of a campaign pass away with the election. In this case the salt rising bread issue of last year is spreading.

A special investigation as to the wholesomeness of Governor Stubbs' brand is to be made at the University of Kansas at Lawrence, during the summer. When the industrial chemist of the university has made his experiments the result will be published in bulletin form and distributed among the people of the state.

Every baker in the state is interested in the outcome of the test. The tariff has taken second place as the topic of the day. The governor has ordered salt rising bread to be served three times a day at the executive mansion. Congressmen and ex-citizens are invited to partake of the loaves and give their opinions on the extra. If it is decided that the bread which "mother used to bake," as Governor Stubbs puts it, is health giving it will, in the opinion of many, help the governor in his political aspirations, and the next senatorial contest in the legislature may hinge upon the efficacy of the sort of bread advocated by Governor Stubbs, for it is believed in some quarters that the governor is looking to the United States senate as the ultimate Thule of his run in politics. So ardent is the governor in his crusade for the salt rising loaf that he has an extra amount baked in the ovens of the executive mansion in order that he may have "some left over" to send to his neighbors and friends throughout the state.

Governor Stubbs came from the soil, and the mannerisms of the plain, everyday man of the people have been prominent in all he has undertaken. He has a way of expressing himself that lasts. He is six feet out of his boots, broad in physique, red haired and has a state, but "git up and git," that makes men great." From that time until the present he has been called "Git-up-and-git Stubbs."

It was not long ago that the name of Stubbs received an additional impetus throughout the country because he proposed the parole system for state convicts. He believed there were innocent men in the penitentiary and proposed that any such should be given an opportunity to start even again. He went further. He believed unless the prisoner was a confirmed criminal that he might be given the opportunity of showing that he would smile that radiates a room after the light has been turned off. His voice is far-reaching, and when he uses it in public it shuts out all debate. When he first came into the arena of public life he came from a Quaker family that has given him a sobriquet that has stuck to him ever since. Dangerous Fire in South End Manager is Spending Good Money for Players

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Two men were seriously injured and 14 others rescued from 12 Condit street in a house early Sunday morning in a fire which was extinguished by the fire department. It was a narrow escape for the inmates of the house.

The injured men are Alexander Cameron, 47 years old, and Roger Dacey, 50 years old, both living on the top floor of the three-story building. They were taken to the city hospital. One of them ran down through the fire and smoke and into the street, dressed only in his underclothing, and sank exhausted in a doorway opposite.

The other was found by the police and firemen on the roof after the fire, writhing in pain and helpless. Both are seriously burned about the head, chest, hands and shoulders.

Mr. and Mrs. Dacey were brought down on a ladder from the top floor in a sensational rescue. Four young girls, four women and four men were aroused by the police and led or helped out of the house, greeted by a crowd from the throng that had gathered and which witnessed one of the most exciting rescue scenes in recent years.

The flames were fiercest on the top floor, and Mrs. Cameron was awakened just before 2 a. m. by the crackling of the flames, and feeling suffocated from inhaling the smoke while she slept. She jumped out of bed with nothing on but underclothing and ran blindly through the smoke and flames and down the stairs to the street. When she reached a doorway on the opposite side of the street she collapsed.

Neighbors who were awakened by the screams rushed out and wrapped Cameron in a blanket, and when Sergeant Laffey and Patrolman Donovan of the Langrange street station arrived they hurried him to the hospital.

The firemen extinguished the flames with a loss which probably not exceeded $500. The cause of the fire was not determined. It seemed to start in the rear of the basement and to have spread up through the house to the roof with very great rapidity. There was little damage to the front part of the house, except that due to smoke from the throng that had gathered and

The batting averages to date show Danzig the only man over .300 and that, perhaps, because he hasn't played in as many games as the others, while the best of the remainder are at .250 or thereabouts.

Manager Gray has been having the toughest luck that ever visited a manager. Is it any wonder that the poor manager is fit to be tied? Instead of criticizing the management the fans should lend their encouragement.

WEALTHY WOMAN LOSS IS $60,000

Died a Recluse in New York City Fire on Jordan Estate at Plymouth

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Possessed of wealth estimated at $50,000, yet living the life of a recluse, ignoring the world and having no friends, Miss Marie Clementine Sistrup, aged 60, died in her apartments at No. 426 West Forty-seventh street, some time between noon on Tuesday and the night of Wednesday of this week. The woman's body, fully dressed, was found Saturday night.

The evidences of wealth in the woman's apartments were abundant. Obscurely, a dressmaker, Miss Sistrup was a woman of means and evidently belonged to a good family. Among her effects was found a bank book of the New York Savings & Trust company showing that she had on deposit in that institution in 1901 more than $22,600. Most of this money had been subsequently withdrawn and loaned to individuals on interest, as was indicated by the discovery of some 15 mortgages on real and personal property ranging in sums from $1000 to $5000.

A check for $3000 had been recently drawn by Miss Sistrup, but the name of the payee did not appear. Death closed the financial negotiation before it had been completed.

Other valuables were scattered about the five rooms occupied by the woman. These included gold watches and an abundance of gold jewelry of antique pattern.

Little information could be obtained about the antecedents of the dead woman. If she had friends or relatives, their whereabouts is unknown. Among a lot of papers written in French was found a will devising the residue of her estate after the payments of her debts to her sisters Margaret and Josephine. The will was dated in 1901, but contained no addresses by which the devisees could be located. There were witnesses to the instrument.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Aug. 2.—The large stock stable and riding school on the Ellen D. Jordan estate at Chiltonville were destroyed by fire yesterday morning, causing a loss estimated at between $60,000 and $70,000. The estate was not occupied.

It is said the fire was first discovered about 5:30 by a milkman, who was on his way to milk his cows. At that time smoke was issuing from the cupola of the stock stable.

Instead of at once giving the alarm the milkman waited until he had milked the cows. Not until his return home did he notify anyone of the blaze.

At 5 o'clock, upon hearing the news, Arthur Churchill rang in an alarm from the telephone office near private box 121, Strand street, drawn by four horses, responded, but as the estate is four miles away, the two buildings were all ablaze upon its arrival.

The private steamer owned by Mr. Jordan, which is a very powerful one, could not be used as there was not a sufficient number at the fire to operate it.

The stock stable was situated beside the Sandwich road and was about 200 feet long and two stories high. It was finished in hardwood and contained a large number of stalls, twenty-five tons of hay, the property of Charles A. Stone, who has a summer place on Warren street, as well as a number of wagons and farming implements, were stored in the stable.

The riding school adjoining the stable, which was also destroyed, was a handsome structure, much larger than the other building.

It contained a large tankard surface, where the horses were trained, and where the Jordans and their guests often rode horseback in inclement weather.

The structure was of wood with iron trusses high in the walls. A platform of hardwood surrounded the tankard.

The cause of the fire is unknown, but it is thought to have been incendiary.

The building was built a few years ago by Ellen D. Jordan when he was interested in the horse shows and exhibited at all the large ones.

The "Force," as the estate was called, has been occupied for two years on account of Mr. Jordan's health, and the place has been in the market for some time.

The buildings were covered by insurance. The loss on the riding school was about $100,000, that on the stock stable about $20,000.

DIVING HORSES

THE GREAT ATTRACTION AT LAKEVIEW FOR ANOTHER WEEK

The diving horses are to remain at Lakeview another week. The dive is shown in the cut in another column reproduced from a photograph. The feat is wonderful. The plunge from the tower is not the most wonderful but the total disappearance of the horses in deep water, then the reappearance and the shake of the head, the glance around as if to say "Where am I?"—then the beautiful swimming stroke to the shore. There is ample opportunity for ten thousand people to see each of the horses dive every afternoon and evening at 2:15 and 8:25.

Occasionally one of the horses by an extra effort turns a somersault so that he strikes the water on his hind quarters and after the plunge swims ashore. At other times by a misadventure in making the jump he strikes the water directly on his head while in the act of turning over on his back, completing the somersault under the water and coming to the surface after the lapse of about a minute. The first delightful children especially and all the children in Lowell should see it.

GIRL BURIED BADLY BURNED

ON THE DAY SET FOR HER WEDDING LITTLE CHILD WAS PLAYING WITH MATCHES

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Almost at the hour set for her wedding yesterday afternoon in All Souls' church, Brooklyn, the funeral of Miss Elizabeth Lowe, a popular young woman of Flatbush, took place at the home of her sister, Mrs. Robert E. McConnell, 296 Eighth road. Miss Lowe died suddenly in Winthrop, Mass., last Thursday where she was taking a brief rest prior to her expected wedding.

She was to have been the bride of Edwin C. Sherwood of Bridgeport, Conn. He was the chief mourner at the funeral today. The couple had known each other a number of years. Mr. Sherwood having lived for a time at the home of Miss Lowe's aunt at 31 Rutland road, Flatbush.

Miss Lowe was born in Brooklyn and was the daughter of Curtis P. and Elizabeth Wright Lowe. Mr. Sherwood was at her side when she died in Winthrop. The body was brought to Brooklyn and Rev. Dr. Brigham of All Souls' was to have led the funeral service.

BURTON McCLEERY WAS KILLED WHILE ON A HUNTING TRIP

ST. JOHN, N. B., Aug. 2.—Burton McCleery, a former American soldier, who served in the Red Cross department of the U. S. army medical corps, accidentally shot and killed himself at Jones creek, on the St. John river, yesterday morning.

McCleery was visiting his brother at Jones creek and had gone out in a canoe with a gun, taking with him his rifle and shotgun. It is supposed that in attempting to draw the rifle from the canoe the trigger caught and it exploded. The charge passed through his body, and as there was no time to get to the bank, the powder set his clothes on fire.

When found he was dead. He leaves a young wife. McCleery had just received his discharge papers from the American army and had intended to return to the United States in a few days to engage in cattle raising.

CITY EMPLOYEES

Held a Great Convention in Newton Yesterday

NEWTON, Aug. 2.—A resolution that all state, city and town employees should be paid at the rate of $2.50 a day, and that they should receive remuneration for all legal holidays, was adopted just previous to the close of an all-day convention of the national federation of state city and town employees, the third annual session, held yesterday in the Hibernian hall, Neponset building.

Mayor Hutchinson addressed the convention for 10 minutes yesterday afternoon, declaring himself in favor of organized labor seeking shorter working hours, but asserting that he was not in sympathy with the law which says they shall not work over eight hours, even if they wish to do so.

A number of matters of vital interest to unions within the federation were acted upon. The federation president was instructed to work upon the state, city and town officials in an effort to have them in that city put on an eight-hour working day; to confer with Cambridge sewer department regarding work on rainy Saturdays, and to call upon Supt. Ross of Newton cemetery to secure payment for tomb-raising which employees have worked with remuneration since last autumn.

The legislative committee rehearsed its demand for a compensation all employees will meet its favor. A resolution was passed that bills be introduced into the legislature to do away with contract work of cooks, clerks or messengers, and the committee was empowered to do everything within its power to see that civil service laws are enforced.

"I believe that organized labor has a right to bring influence upon the legislature to secure shorter working hours, but I am not in sympathy with the grounds employees."

There were delegates present from the following unions: Boston water works employees, Fall River, Chelmsford, Worcester, Cambridge, Somerville, Lynn, New Bedford and Brookline city employees, bridge tenders of Boston, metropolitan park employees, Boston paving department, cemetery department of Boston, metropolitan department of Boston, water department and public works department.

Representative William H. O'Brien of Boston spoke on the labor question. It applies to government employees. The announcement was made that the pension commission will in October give members of the unions of the federation an evening in which to advance arguments for pensions for veteran employees.

There were delegates present from the following unions: Boston water works employees, Fall River, Chelmsford, Worcester, Cambridge, Somerville, Lynn, New Bedford and Brookline city employees, bridge tenders of Boston, metropolitan park employees, Boston paving department, cemetery department of Boston, metropolitan department of Boston, water department and public works department.

MULAI HAFID, MOROCCAN RULER, WHOSE FORCES ROUTED SPANIARDS

MADRID, Aug. 2.—The Moors fought with the usual desperation in the attack on the Spanish forces at Melilla and used even better tactics than the Spaniards. In the first skirmish they made the Spaniards a hard fight, but showed only a part of their force, drawing away to the mountains while the engagement was still in progress. Then when the Spanish forces attacked with a battle line four miles long Mulai Hafid's legions descended upon them, cutting their center and flanking them at the same time. The Spaniards were driven back to the walls of Melilla, and Mulai Hafid promptly sent 5000 more men to reinforce his troops. The small picture accompanying the portrait of the sultan shows him talking to the Spanish minister. It was taken about two years ago.

BILLERICA.

The Billerica Centre fire department was called out Saturday night to battle with a stubborn brush fire in the vicinity of Fox hill on the road to East Billerica. Despite the fact that the fire burned over considerable ground before it was extinguished nothing of value was burned.

A FIELD DAY

A field day was held Saturday at Zion park under the auspices of the members of the Zion cricket club. The members and their friends turned out in large numbers and a general good time was held. A hurdy gurdy band furnished plenty of good music. Light refreshments were served.

Of the athletic program, a cricket match between two teams captained respectively by Messrs. Sutherland and Seale formed the main feature. Some very fine playing was seen, and at times the score was close, but Seale's team managed to carry off the honors with a score of 101 to 88. Other athletic sports were carried off, and the day spent in active enjoyment.

INJURIES FATAL

YOUNG MAN RUN OVER BY A TRAIN

WESTMINSTER, Mass., Aug. 2.—
While being rushed in a special train to a Gardner hospital last night, Roy Barrow, 29 years old, of Keene, N. H., died of injuries received by being run over by another train. Death came before the engine and caboose of which the special was composed, had reached the Westminster yard limits.
When the train left from a train or was walking on the tracks when run over, is uncertain. The police tonight are looking for John Ryan, also of Keene, who is reported to be Barrow's partner in the today of the death of their son. It is supposed that he was with Barrow at the time of the accident.

ARREST PORTER

HE IS CHARGED WITH SERIES OF ROBBERIES

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—The mystery of the series of robberies on the steamer Calvin Austin of the Eastern S. S. Co., plying between this port and St. John, N. B., by which during the past two years the boat and its passengers have lost thousands of dollars, is believed by the police of this city to have been cleared up with the arrest yesterday of Thomas W. Wright, aged 21, a colored porter on the steamer.

Upon being searched, Wright was found to have two watches which had been reported stolen, one of which was valued at $15 and the other at $50. The police claim they recovered more than $200 worth of booty in the man's room on Roxbury. His reason was also found a bookish, showing that in the last 25 days he had deposited in a Boston bank about $250. Wright is held by the police on the specific charge of the larceny of two watches.

KINGDOM GOULD

INVADERS' GIRLS' COTTAGE ON A
DARE

WATERBURY, Conn., Aug. 2.—Sixty Columbia students camped near Eaton lake, answering a "dare" of Mrs. F. H. Gould, gave the outline after midnight, and sent the invading young women scurrying to hide in closets and cupboards.
The girls had in the young men and said to go to bed.

"Come down in the evening and bring your lanterns and pitchforks."
"We certainly will," was the response, and then they dared him.
Kingdom Gould was in the thicket of the forest, waited in a midnight darkness, with the students whispering and running to and fro, sometimes other fellow carried a kangaroo and a skeleton, presented the caption of the retreat by the college band.

WOMAN DEAD

THIRD VICTIM OF ACCIDENT AT SIDDEFORD

BIDDEFORD, Me., Aug. 1.—Mrs. Esther L. Cates, 45 years old, of the place, who was permitted into the water by the overturning of the power boat, died yesterday night, and yesterday, this morning, the number of victims resulting from this accident was three. The others to lose their lives were Mrs. Katherine Landon and Miss Mary Landon, who were in the power boat with Mrs. Cates. The power boat was owned by the power company of Biddeford and owned small boats.

BREEZY POINT.

Dancing is a pastime that is highly recommended by physicians and it has its thousands of devotees. In winter, it is enjoyable, but under ordinary conditions the summertime is too warm. At Breezy Point Willow Dale, however, things are different. The dancing pavilion is situated over the water and is open on all four sides, three of which are entirely clear and allow the cool, fresh breezes to blow through. It is practically an outdoor dance hall and is comfortable all of the time. The music is supplied by Joe Hildred and his orchestra, and they, as always, please the dancers.

CANOBIE LAKE THEATRE.

For this week at Canobie Lake Park theatre a musical farce, entitled "The Merry Widower" is the offering, but in addition to the farce will be presented two excellent vaudeville features.
Gray and Graham in their great comical novelty and the A. B. C. D. Girls in a rattling singing and dancing spectacle.

Be sure and go to the park this week.

STAR THEATRE

In staging a piece, in the enacting of it, and in the photography—motion picture photography is extremely difficult—the Biograph company is foremost among film manufacturers, in the opinion of many. Their latest creation is "The Son of Heman."
This picture was taken by a capable company of actors at the Star theatre today, and the presentation was excellent. Besides this there were new illustrated songs and motion pictures.
The theatre is clean and cool. The admission of five cents includes a seat.

this play Mr. Kennedy is seen in the light comedy role that of Bob Simpson, who is private secretary to Col. Henry Weston, senatorial nominee from the state of Texas. The action of the play takes place during the election campaign, and has many strong scenes as well as good comedy situations. In his efforts to aid his employer's election, young Simpson assumes several disguises, while in the role of an undercover detective. One of the disguised characters is that of a young society woman in full evening dress, a costume that Mr. Kennedy is said to wear with grace and ease. The play will be presented with full strength of the cast and special scenery for the production has been prepared.
Performances of this bill will be given every night this week and with daily matinees commencing Tuesday.
The diving horses that the park management is offering this week as a free attraction will not interfere in the least with the performance as the curtain will be held until the free act is over, giving everyone a chance to get to the theatre in time to see the curtain rise. Seats are on sale at Carter & Sherburne's drug store one week in advance.
